INTEGRITY OF SERBIA AND BELGIUM ITALY'S PRICE TO KEEP PEACE

This Condition of Neutrality Demands Said to Be One of Chief Causes of Delay in Conversations

REPORTED GERMANY HAS DECLARED WAR ON ITALY

Rome Believes War Is Only Question of Days While on Border It Is Believed Question of Only Hours

ROME, May 11.—(Via Paris.)—Although negotiations with Germany and Austria still are pending, and there is a bare possibility the influence of former Premier Giolitti may avert war, military preparations pointing to Austria as an inevitable antagonist are so thorough and vigorous that a conflict seems unavoidable.

Even discussion among the opposition parties virtually have ceased. Only the irreconcilable socialists whose deputies met in the chamber today still oppose Italy's participation in the war, and their attitude is believed to be guided more by a desire for consistency than because of opposition to war.

The Milan Secolo says Italy demanded the integrity of Serbia and Belgium as a condition of its neutrality, and that this was one of the chief causes of delay in the conversations.

Andreas Hermes, head of the section of plant diseases in the international institute of agriculture, who had returned to resume his post after a leave of absence, was sent home on the next train by the police who are said to have learned that he is connected with the German general staff.

The interview between ex-Premier Giolitti and King Victor Emmanuel today was followed by a longer one between the ex-premier and Premier Salandra.

Signor Giolitti was informed of all the negotiations that had been entered into both with the central empires and with the allied countries. This was to enable him to judge the situation in its entirety, and with the hope that parliament would be unanimous in the decision which Italy is expected to take within the next few days.

New offers are understood to have come today from the central empires which the Rome cabinet still finds inadequate.

War Now Ony a Question of Hours, Says Report

ON THE ITALIAN FRONTIER, May 11.—(Via Paris.)—The opinion prevails in Rome that Italy's participation in the war is only a question of days.

Along the Austrian frontier, where the correspondent of the Associated Press has been from one end of the line to the other, it is universally felt that war is a question only of hours.

Reported Germany Already Declared War on Italy

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, May 11.—It is being persistently rumored in Paris that Germany and Austria already have declared or about to declare war on Italy, in anticipation of an Italian declaration of war against them. The report lacked confirmation.

Another widespread rumor was that Italy had signed an agreement with Great Britain, France and Russia to take part in the war not later than May 26. That also was unconfirmed.

French observers in Italy infer from the audience yesterday between King Victor Emmanuel and former Prime Minister Giolitti that the nonintervention party in Italy has determined to withdraw all opposition to the war.

Military writers are presenting the argument that the necessity of defending a third frontier undoubtedly would make the resistance to Austria and Germany on other fronts more feeble and are predicting that with the advent of Italy would mean victory over Germany by the middle of summer.

Italy and Austria Can't Agrees on Trent and Trieste

PARIS, May 11.—Another version of the territorial concessions Austria is said to have proposed to Italy has been printed by the Mattino of Naples and telegraphed to the Havas Agency by its Rome correspondent. According to this report Austria is willing to cede part of the province of Trent to Italy with a strip of territory to the south of Isonzo river which empties into the Gulf of Trieste. Trieste itself is absolutely excluded as well as Istria and Pola.

The Italian cabinet is said to have considered these concessions insufficient and made a counter proposition demanding all of Trent up to Brenner (a mountain pass on the Austro-Italian border connecting Innsbruck with Bozen, and offering the shortest route between Central Germany and Italy), with Trieste and Istria, including Pola. Italy, the Mattino asserts, will insist upon obtaining Trieste but is ready to give Austria commercial guarantees.

The Havas correspondent says he is able to state that the Italian government has demanded of Vienna a definite answer within a fixed time. He adds that in the best informed circles there is no real hope of a peaceful settlement although Pope Benedict has sent Emperor Francis Joseph an autograph letter asking him to yield, in order to avoid another war.

Italians Are Ordered to Rejoin Their Regiments

(By Associated Press.)

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 11.—(Via Paris.)—All Italian officers and men in Switzerland up to the age of thirty-four were ordered yesterday to rejoin their regiments immediately.

Austrian and Bavarian forces are concentrating in the Tyrol. Automobiles belonging to the Italian royal family which had been assembled at Nonha, near Milan, were sent to Verona yesterday for use of the army.

Banquet to Kaiser's Men Is Halted by Lusitania Disaster

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 11.—A banquet and reception for the officers of the interned German commerce raiders Kronprinz Wilhelm and Prinz Eitel Friedrich, which was to have been held here within the next few days, has been abandoned by its promoters. Word has been sent to the officers at the Norfolk navy yard that because of the Lusitania disaster it was thought best not to carry out the plan.

England's Efforts To Starve Germany Branded a Failure

Berlin Newspaper Cites Recent Order Regarding Food Supplies as Proof of Its Contention

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, May 11.—(Via Amsterdam and London.)—The Reichs Anzeiger announces the withdrawal from May 8 of the federal council's decree of January, ordering towns and rural communities to provide for their population meat and tinned goods, and take steps to assure a supply.

The Vossische Zeitung says withdrawal of the decree proves that Great Britain's plan to starve Germany has failed.

Counterfeiter Caught at Work in the Open Enters Federal Prison

The population of the Atlanta federal prison was increased Tuesday by the addition of a counterfeiter, three white slavers and four men convicted of misuse of the mails.

The counterfeiter, Charles L. Wright, is declared to be the only first-class counterfeiter ever captured at work in the open. According to the members of the federal marshal's party, which brought the prisoners here, Wright, who has served a term at Leavenworth, was found by two county policemen sitting by the roadside over a log, molding dimes, quarters and half dollars. He was sentenced to serve eight years.

In the party which brought the prisoners to Atlanta are W. W. Stockham, United States marshal, and Deputies William Avery, Joseph Westerveldt, W. H. Manners and John A. Sherman, Jr. The latter is a reporter on a Baltimore paper, when he is not helping the marshal transport prisoners over the country.

BONDS OF RAGSDALE AND BARBER FORFEITED

Men Accused of False Swearing in Frank Case Fail to Appear

When Rev. C. B. Ragsdale and R. L. Barber failed to appear in court Monday to stand trial on charges of perjury in swearing to alleged false affidavits in connection with the Frank case, Judge Hill forfeited their bonds, Ragsdale's $500, Barber's $300.

The judge's order was the first order and it is customary for a sufficient time to elapse for investigation before the forfeiture is declared final.

Solicitor Dorsey told the court Barber had informed him he was sick and therefore could not appear. No excuse was given for Ragsdale's absence.

BURNING JITNEY BUS CALLS TWO COMPANIES

A blazing jitney bus Monday afternoon in front of 202 Washington street created considerable excitement and caused two fire companies and four mounted policemen to respond to emergency calls sent to police and fire headquarters.

The driver of the car, John Morris, is said to have lost control of his machine. Chemicals poured on the automobile prevented the fire's spread. The automobile was almost a complete loss.

CABINET HOLDS LONG SESSION BUT NONE WILL BREAK SILENCE

Whether Atlantic Fleet Will Pass Through Canal or Review Will Be Held Are Questions Unanswered by Daniels

GERMANY'S MESSAGE IS OFFICIALLY TRANSMITTED

President's Address Being Widely Discussed, Though He Disclaims Special Reference to Sinking of the Liner

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The cabinet was in session nearly three hours, the longest meeting in several months. None of the members would deny that the Lusitania incident had even discussed, but all refused absolutely to comment. The demeanor generally of the cabinet members was grave and reserved.

Secretary Bryan, pressed with questions, said:

"We must not discuss what occurs at cabinet meetings."

Secretary Daniels, asked whether the Atlantic fleet would pass through the Panama canal in July in accordance with previously announced plans, replied:

"I cannot discuss that or any other question now."

Mr. Daniels was asked whether the review of the Atlantic fleet would be held next week in New York would be held. Yesterday he had denied that plans for the review would be changed. Today he answered:

"I cannot discuss that."

White House officials would give no intimation as to whether the president had decided on a course. They simply declared there was nothing to be said at present.

Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador, today, accepting as authentic the text of Germany's formal expression of regret for the loss of Americans on the Lusitania, which was received in last night's news dispatches, formally presented the statement today to the state department. The official text has not yet reached the embassy because of difficulties of wireless communication.

BERNSTORFF IS RETICENT.

When the German ambassador left Secretary Bryan's office he said he had delivered the message forwarded from Berlin.

"That is all I can say," he added. "For anything else I respectfully refer you to the secretary of state."

Secretary Bryan took the document with him to the cabinet meeting. Asked whether there was any discussion with the ambassador concerning it he replied:

"Nothing that I can talk about."

President Wilson returned early today from Philadelphia where he addressed a gathering of naturalized citizens last night. His speech is being widely discussed here today. While the president did not refer specifically to the situation brought about by the sinking of the Lusitania some thought he intimated that while the United States would remain at peace, an endeavor would be made to show Germany, from the American viewpoint, that her action was wrong. One of his advisers said the president's chief aim would be humanity first no matter how vigorous the course adopted.

Speculation as to what will be the policy of the United States still continued today. President Wilson, in the seclusion of the White House, for the past three days been giving constant attention to the matter, realizing that the American people were in a state of agitation as to what action will be taken. Communications poured to each the White House today from throughout the country expressing confidence in the president's ability to handle the situation.

"EARNESTLY BUT CALMLY."

The president said he would make a decision on the policy to be followed in the Lusitania case as soon as he had all the elements in mind. For the present he had nothing to add, he said, to his statement of Saturday that he was considering "very earnestly, but very calmly the right course of action to pursue," and that he knew the sympathy expected him "to act with deliberation as well as with firmness."

The president made it clear he was expressing a personal attitude and not referring to any specific case. That led to the belief in many quarters that the president had not reached a decision in the Lusitania case, and was expressing his personal feeling as to the ideal the United States should have in this situation as well as other phases of international law. It was taken that he was endeavoring to explain the cause of humanity by using its influence to secure an adherence to the rules and principles of international law wherever they have been contravened.

Although the general trend of comment was one of surprise at the limitation which the president placed today on the application of his speech, those who have followed his public utterances closely pointed out that Mr. Wilson has frequently spoken implicitly, rather than explicitly. In Philadelphia last night he impressed with the belief that he was referring specifically to the Lusitania tragedy, but he indicated by his remarks today that he meant his speech to be broader than a single incident and to cover the entire subject of future violations as well as the subject of domestic solidarity with reference to the aliens who have become naturalized in America.

TO END SUBMARINE WAR.

The Philadelphia speech was interpreted by official Washington nevertheless as meaning that whatever course is pursued, the United States probably would endeavor to serve the cause of humanity by appealing to Germany to end her submarine warfare against unarmed merchant ships carrying non-combatants.

In some quarters the suggestion was made that the president might forego the usual means of diplomatic correspondence and address a message in person to Emperor William. It was pointed out by persons hitherto in the president's confidence that he might first try to prevent a recurrence of such an attack as was made on the Lusitania,

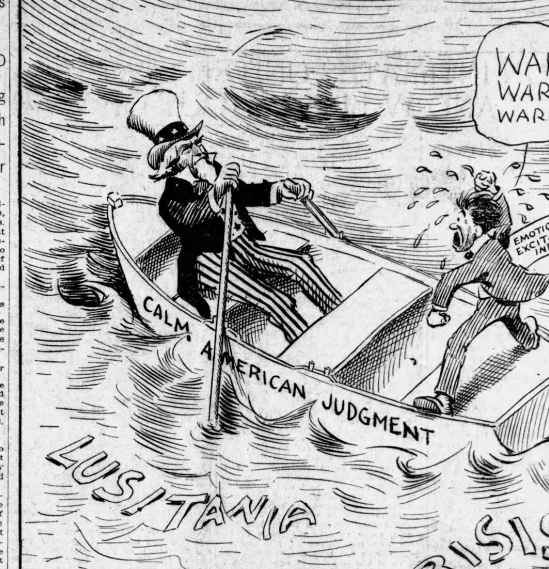
Germans Admit Gains by Allies Between Carency and Neuville



ATHENS SAYS TURKS HAVE LOST 45,000 MEN AT GALLIPOLI

Turks, However, Make Counter Claim of Having Annihilated Three Battalions of Allied Troops With Bayonets

FRENCH CLAIM CHECK TO ATTACKS IN WEST

Russians Claim to Have Come Back and Repulsed Austrians in Capathians, Germans in Baltic Provinces

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The newly inaugurated offensive movement of the allies over a long section of the front in Flanders has developed a general engagement of considerable intensity. The official Berlin statement today concedes that the allies have won ground between Carency and Neuville, but attacks elsewhere are said to have been repelled. The Germans announce the capture of French trenches over a width of nearly one-fourth of a mile near Berry-au-Bac.

The Paris war office claims the allies made gains yesterday in Belgium near Arras, France, and at several other points, and that German attacks were beaten back.

From Athens comes the report that the Turks have lost 45,000 men at the Dardanelles and the allied armies have succeeded in capturing several important positions.

The official Turkish statement from Constantinople, however, does not mention reverses, but claims that the allied armies have been repulsed by bayonet charges near Ari Burnu and that three battalions were annihilated.

The Russians claim to have driven the Germans back in the Baltic province of Courland and in the Carpathians. The capture of Libau, claimed by the Germans several days ago, is not mentioned.

Petrograd claims success over the Austrians in the Carpathians, where at one point, it is said, the Austrian dead piled up so high in front of the Russian trenches that the first of the Russian guns was rendered ineffective and the czar's men were forced to leave the trenches, climbing over the Austrian dead and repulse the survivors of the enemy at the point of the bayonet.

Russian claims to victories in the Carpathians are offset by the German war office report that further striking gains have been made by the Austro-German forces. It is said attempts of the Russians to halt the advance were defeated with heavy Russian losses.

Italian officers and men in Switzerland up to the age of 34 have been ordered to rejoin their regiments immediately. Austrian and Bavarian forces are concentrating in the Tyrol.

British Reinforcement Reach Allies on Flanders Front

LONDON, May 11.—The Russians continue to fall back in western Galicia before the Austro-German thrust and the Germanic allies now have crossed the upper reaches of the Wistoka river and are within fifty miles of the fortress of Przemysl.

This much is admitted in the Petrograd official communication, but it is spoken of in a mater-of-fact way, which does not show much perturbation, and coupled with the reverse claims of having recommenced a successful offensive against the Austro-Germans at various points.

It is anticipated in London that the allied advance on the western front will relieve the pressure on the Russians. A new and significant development in the western theater is that despite the German concentration in Flanders and France the British and French forces find themselves strong enough to attack on such a wide front.

Confirmation of yesterday's statement that heavy reinforcements had reached the allied front is found in the Berlin official communication which estimates the number to be "at least four fresh army corps."

The recruiting fever aroused in Great Britain by the sinking of the Lusitania continues.

German Attacks in Belgium Repulsed, French Claim

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, May 11.—The French war office this afternoon issued the following statement:

"In Belgium near St. Georges the enemy endeavored by a night attack to recapture the positions taken by us the day before yesterday. They were, however, repulsed.

"To the north of Arras our progress has continued. Monday evening we took possession first of the cemetery and then of the eastern part of the village of Neuville, which is to the west of Carency to Sauchez. Carency, where we took 230 more prisoners, including three officers, and captured several machine guns, is now invested by our troops on three sides and is reduced to precarious communication with the German lines.

"The force brought by the enemy from Lens and from Douai in automobiles were not successful in any place in getting the advantage. Four strong counter attacks broke down under our fire during the afternoon of Monday, at the same time suffering very heavy losses.

"These attacks took place in front of Loos, at Notre Dame de Lorette, at Sauchez, and at Nuville Saint Vaast. At this last mentioned place we gained territory, at the same time making about 100 prisoners. The number of officers

BERLIN REPORTS "BATTLE" BETWEEN BRITISH SHIPS

London Brands Story as Attempt of Germany to Influence Neutral States

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 11.—The British official press bureau today issued this announcement:

"The following statement dated Berlin, May 9, has been officially circulated through the German wireless stations and received by the Marconi company:

"'The main headquarters reported some weeks ago that a large number of reports were current which originated in Norway to the effect that near Bergen, on the Norwegian coast, during the night from the 7th to the 8th of April heavy sea fighting between English and German ships had taken place. Ships coming from that direction also reported that they had seen squadrons of warships. On the night in question gunfire by the aid of illuminating rockets had been noticed.

BERLIN STORY.

"'With regard to these reports some light now has been thrown on the matter by the commander of the submarine A. E.-2, which was destroyed in the Dardanelles. According to a letter which came into our possession regarding the North sea fight which is said to have taken place, the British battleship Superb is said to have been sunk and the cruiser Warrior is said to have been sinking without the German navy having suffered any loss.

"'On Friday, the 9th of April, a number of cruisers are said to have arrived in a badly damaged condition. The Lion was very badly damaged. Official reports say nothing of all this.

"'Similar reports have come to hand from reliable neutral sources to the effect that a number of badly damaged and slightly damaged ships had reached English ports for repairs. The manner in which they had been damaged has been left unexplained.

"'An especially large number of damaged ships ran into the Tyne. A damaged cruiser was towed into the Tyne. A ship of the Lion class with a starboard list and with her aft funnel missing was towed into the Firth of Forth.

FIGHT BY MISTAKE.

"'The silence of the admiralty on all this is easily to be understood. As the German navy took no part in any fighting on the night in question, and as a fight with neutral vessels is out of the question, a battle can only have taken place between ships of the British fleet which did not recognize each other in the darkness.'

"The secretary of the British admiralty states that there is not a word of truth in this fabrication. It is, however, interesting as a mark of the anxiety of Germany at the present moment to make an impression on neutral states."

HUNTERS, OF ATLANTA, WERE CERTAINLY LOST

That Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hunter, of Atlanta, went down with the Lusitania, was made certain Monday when Mr. Hunter's sister, Mrs. Nellie Inglis, of 319 East Georgia avenue, received a cablegram from Mr. Hunter's parents in Aberdeen, Scotland, stating that the Atlantians are among the dead.

OLD-TIMERS TO GREET NEWCOMERS AT CITY AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

Everybody in Atlanta, Old Residents and New, Are Invited to Attend Celebration, Great Time Is Promised

Over a thousand Newcomers have accepted invitations to the auditorium Tuesday night, over a thousand Old-timers have promised to be on hand to entertain them. Preparations are complete, the weather man says the rain will stop by twilight, all Atlanta waits for the clock to chime the hour.

So you young or old, arrival of a day or resident of three score years and ten, be you personally invited or not, this night is yours and all its galeties. Efforts have been made by the Rotary club to reach every Newcomer in the city, every man and his family who have come to Atlanta since January 1, 1914. This was, of course, an impossible task; so a general invitation to include each and all was issued; everybody is urged to be at the auditorium at 8 o'clock.

C. F. von Herrmann, who is the weather man and an old-timer, apologized Tuesday morning for a slight prevailing dampness. But he declared conditions would clear during the afternoon, that, by 8 o'clock, while wet underfoot, there should be no showers in the skies.

Which, after all, is a matter of small moment, since "it's always fair weather when good fellows get together," and the fellows who will gather for Newcomers' night are the best. It will be brilliant inside the big building, no matter what without; and the bewildering assortment of stunts planned for the evening are guaranteed to warm the cockles of an iceberg's heart or melt the vitals of a polar bear. How the Rotarians are going to wedge all the frolic into the short span of one evening, is a mystery they shall be left to solve. For with brass bands, dancing, movies, toy balloons, prizes, marches, speeches, songs and refreshments, it will be such a whirl of carnival as Atlanta has not seen in many moons.

Informality and hospitality will be the watchwords. The glad hand is out for the Newcomer and the slapondeback. Atlanta want shim to feel at home and he can do anything short of battle royal and suicide and feel at home. Remember the hour 8 o'clock; and the place—the auditorium, corner of Gilmer and Courtland streets. The countersign's "Atlanta:" and we all know it, so come along!

Not a Declaration Of Policy, Asserts Wilson, of Speech

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 11.—President Wilson said today that his speech in Philadelphia last night was not a declaration of policy in reference to the Lusitania disaster; that he was not thinking of any special matter, but of the newly naturalized Americans in his audience.

The president used the expression that he was thinking of the "Cain" some people were trying to raise.

POLICE PROBE BODY IS NOW TO BE INVESTIGATED

Liberals Very Anxious to Know Why Report Has Not Been Made

The special committee appointed to probe the police department is going to be probed itself, when the board of police commissioners holds its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night.

Liberal members of the board admitted Tuesday that they are preparing to investigate the investigators. The special committee was appointed a month ago, and members of the board not on the committee see no reason why the efficiency or inefficiency of the department should not be determined in that time.

As a result Commissioner S. A. Wardlaw, chairman of the special committee, will be asked if he has a report. Commissioner Wardlaw told a Journal reporter during the morning that his committee would have no report and would resume its investigation at a meeting to be held on next Friday night.

The liberal members of the board say they are going to ask the special committee why a month is not long enough to investigate the department, and they are going to intimate very strongly that if the committee can't make a report it might as well resign and turn the job over to other members of the board, who would hold more frequent sessions and complete the job.

It will be remembered that while the special committee was appointed as the result of activity of the police board liberals, only one liberal, Commissioner R. C. Clark, was named on the committee, whose other four members are always classed as the friends of Chief Beavers.

Chairman Wardlaw said Tuesday that the committee had simply not progressed far enough to make a report of any value to the board but that it expects to continue the work.

Mr. Wardlaw also said that at next Friday's session of the special committee it might summons Basil Stockbridge, whose remarks about the department startled the Civic Forum at a recent meeting. He added, however, the committee had not yet definitely decided whether it would summons Mr. Stockbridge.

WILSON INTIMATES UNITED STATES CAN AND WILL STAY OUT OF WAR

Force Is Not Needed to Convince Others That We Are Right, President Tells Audience in Philadelphia

(By Associated Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—President Wilson's first intimation of the policy which should control the course of the United States government in dealing with the situation caused by the loss of American lives on the Lusitania was given in his address here last night to an audience of 15,000 people, including 4,000 naturalized American citizens.

Although the president spoke by implication, his audience interpreted his remarks to mean that the United States will remain at peace but will undertake to convince Germany of the injustice to humanity growing out of the Lusitania tragedy.

"America," said President Wilson, "must have the consciousness that on all sides it touches elbows and touches hearts with all the nations of mankind. The example of America must be a special example. And it must be an example not merely of peace because we will not fight, but of peace because peace is a healing and elevating influence in the world and strife is not.

"There is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight. There is such a thing as a nation being so right that it does not need to convince others by force that it is right."

The president's words were received with tumultous applause and waving of American flags. While he made no direct reference to the sinking of the Lusitania, the audience did not hesitate to apply his meaning.

CROWD PACKS HALL.

On reaching the convention hall soon after his arrival in Philadelphia, President Wilson found Secretaries Wilson and Daniels on the platform. The hall was packed with people. Thousands held small American flags in their hands and the hall was profusely decorated in the national colors.

Mayor Blankenburg, of Philadelphia, speaking with marked German accent, opened the meeting by calling on the audience to unite in singing "America." The audience rose and President Wilson stood with them and joined in the singing.

Mayor Blankenburg said he, like the other aliens of the audience, had "come from foreign shores to find in the United States a home."

"Let me beseech you to be Americans first, last and all the time," said he, "no matter what may happen in the world at large. No matter what our personal feelings toward the country we left behind, our first allegiance is to the country of our adoption. Thank God we have in the White House a man who is just, a man who knows what to do."

Here the audience rose en masse, waved American flags above their heads and gave vent to a tremendous cheer.

"I am perfectly willing," Mayor Blankenburg continued, "to leave the conduct of the great problem now confronting us in the hands of our great president. I present to you, God bless him, President Wilson."

OVATION FOR WILSON.

The president rose and stepped forward. The band struck up "Star Spangled Banner." Again the vast audience stood up with one impulse and cheered and waved the Stars and Stripes. Hundreds mounted their chairs. So great was the enthusiasm that the president had to bow again and again before quiet was restored.

Throughout speech he was constantly interrupted by applause, although between these outbursts the audience preserved such quiet that he could be heard distinctly in every corner of the hall. Among the passages in his speech which the audience cheered most loudly were when he said: "I am sorry for the man who seeks to make personal capital out of the passions of his fellow men;" when he said that he had felt he ought to stay in Washington, but after coming found that the gathering had renewed his "spirit as an American"; when he said: "My advice to you is to think not only of America, but to think first of humanity; and you do not love humanity if you seek to divide humanity into jealous camps."

At the close of his address the president was given another great and prolonged ovation which continued all the way from the convention hall to the railroad station where his private car was parked.

On his return to the station he rode for three miles in a lane of people solidly packed on both sides and constantly cheering and waving American flags, while the incessant honking of automobile horns added to the tumult. In the Broad street station of the Pennsylvania railroad several hundred people were gathered to give him a farewell cheer as he stepped aboard his car. All along the journey the president bowed and smiled in acknowledgment of the greeting. Soon after entering his car he retired.

SPEECH IN FULL.

The stenographic copy of Mr. Wilson's address in full follows:

"It warms my heart that you should give such a reception, but it is not of myself that I wish to think tonight, but of those who have just become citizens of the United States. This is the only country in the world which experiences this constant and repeated rebirth. Other countries depend upon the multiplication of their own native people. This country is constantly drinking strength out of new sources by the voluntary association with it of great bodies of strong men and forward looking women. And so by the gift of the free will of independent people it is constantly being renewed from generation to generation by the same process by which it was originally created. It is as if humanity had determined to see to it that this great nation, founded for the benefit of humanity, should not lack for the allegiance of the people of the world.

"You have just taken an oath of allegiance to the United States. Of allegiance to whom? Of allegiance to no one, unless it be God. Certainly not of allegiance to those who temporarily represent this great government. You have taken an oath of allegiance to a great ideal, to a great body of principles, to a great hope of the human race. You have said 'we are coming to America, not only to earn a living, not only to seek the things which it is more difficult to obtain where you were born, but to help forward the great enterprises of the human spirit—to let men know that everywhere in the world there are men who will cross strange oceans and go where a speech is spoken which is alien to them, knowing that whatever the speech, there is but one longing and utterance of the human heart, and that is for liberty and justice.

AMERICA AND HUMANITY.

"And while you bring all countries with you, you come with a purpose of leaving all other countries behind you—bringing what is best of their spirit, but not looking over your shoulders and seeking to perpetuate what you intended to leave in them. I certainly would not be one even to suggest that a man cease to love the home of his birth and the nation of his origin—these things are very sacred and ought not to be put out of our hearts—but it is one thing to love the place where you were born and it is another thing to dedicate yourself to the place to which you go. You cannot dedicate yourself to America unless you become in every respect and with every purpose of your will thorough Americans. You cannot become thorough Americans if you think of yourselves in groups. America does not consist of groups. A man who thinks of himself as belonging to a particular group in America has not yet become an American, and the man who goes among you to trade upon your nationality is no worthy son to live under the Stars and Stripes.

"My urgent advice to you would be not only always to think first of America, but always also to think first of humanity. You do not love humanity if you seek to divide humanity into jealous camps. Humanity can be welded together only by love, by sympathy, by justice, not by jealousy and hatred.

"I am sorry for the man who seeks to make personal capital out of the passions of his fellow-men. He has lost the touch and ideal of America, for America was created to unite mankind by those passions which lift and not by the passions which separate and debase. We came to America, either ourselves or in persons of our ancestors, to better the ideals of men, to make them seek finer things than they had seen before, to get rid of things that divide and to make sure of the things that unite. It was but an historical accident, no doubt, that this great country was called 'the United States' and yet I am very thankful that it has the word 'United' in its title, and the man who seeks to divide man from man, group from group, interest from interest, in the United States, is striking at its very heart.

FINGER OF HOPE.

"It is a very interesting circumstance to me in thinking of those of you who have just sworn allegiance to this great government that you were drawn across the ocean by some beckoning finger of hope, by some belief, by some vision of a new kind of justice, by some expectation of a better kind of life. No doubt you have been disappointed in some of us. Some of us are very disappointing. No doubt you have found that justice in the United States goes only with a pure heart and a right purpose as it does everywhere in the world. No doubt what you found here did not seemed touched for you, after all, with the complete beauty of the ideal which you had conceived before hand. But remember this, if we had grown at all upon the ideal, you brought some of it with you. A man does not go out to seek the thing that is not in him. A man does not hope for the thing that he does not believe in, and if some of us have forgotten what America believed in, you at any rate, imported in your own breasts a renewal of the belief. That is the reason that I, for one, make you welcome. If I have in any degree forgotten what America was intended for I will thank God if you will remind me. I was born in America. You dreamed dreams of what America was to be and I hope you brought the dreams with you. No man that does not see visions will ever realize any high hope or undertake any high enterprise. Just because you brought dreams with you, America is more likely to realize the dreams such as you brought. You are enriching us if you came expecting us to be better than we are.

"See, my friends, what that means; it means that Americans must have a consciousness different from the consciousness of every other nation in the world. I am not saying this with even the slightest thought of criticism of other nations. You know how it is with a family. A family gets centered on itself if it is not careful and is less interested in the neighbors than it is in its own members. So a nation that is not constantly renewed out of new source is apt to have the narrowness and prejudice of a family; whereas, America must have this consciousness, that on all sides it touches elbows and touches hearts with all the nations of mankind.

U. S. IS RIGHT.

"The example of America must be a special example. The example of America must be the example not merely of peace because it will not fight, but of peace because peace is the healing and elevating influence of the world, and strife is not. There is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight. There is such a thing as a nation being so right that it does not need to convince others by force that it is right.

"So if you come into this great nation as you have come, voluntarily seeking something that we have to give, all that we have to give is this: We cannot exempt you from work. No man is exempt fro m work anywhere in the world. I sometimes think he is fortunate if he has to work his head. It is very easy to do what other people give you to do but it is difficult to give other people things to do. We cannot exempt you from work; we cannot exempt you from the strife and the heart breaking burden of the struggle of the day—that is common to mankind; we cannot exempt you from the loads that you must carry; we can only make them light by the spirit in which they are carried. That is the spirit of peace. It is the spirit of liberty It is the spirit of justice.

"When I was asked therefore by the mayor and the committee that accompanied him to come up from Washington to meet this great company of newly admitted citizens I could not decline the invitation. I ought not to be away from Washington and yet I feel that it has renewed my spirit as an American. In Washington man tell you so many things every day that are not so, and, I like to come and stand in the presence of a great body of my fellow citizens, whether they have been my fellow citizens a long time or a short time, and drink, as it were out of the common fountains with them and go back feeling that you have so generously given me the sense of your support and of the living vitality in your hearts, of its great ideals which made America the hope of the world."

Give Wilson Time to Think And to Act, Says Alton Parker

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 11.—Alton B. Parker, Democratic nominee for the presidency in 1904, issued this statement today:

"The attempt to persuade the public what action the Lusitania disaster requires the president to take is unfair to him and may work great injury to us. He alone must bear the heavy responsibility of decision—and greater there cannot be. No one knows it better than he. For bothe personal and patriotic reasons his best efforts will be put forth. We all know this to be true. Why, then, do we not let him alone? Why not give him time? There is certainly no need for hurry. On the contrary, there is every reason for making haste slowly.

"Have we forgotten the Maine? Can we not see President McKinley, standing with his back to the wall in the face of the hoarse cry of angry men demanding war—and his refusal to hurry. He saw his duty to the people, and performed it. True, in the end war came—but not as a result of passion—and in the meantim ethe sentiment of the world had come to our side.

"The president has information that we have not. When to announce a decision may be almost as important as what the decision shall be. Let us all pray that those who will be heard because they cannot act may be induced to desist until the man chosen by the people to decide shall have performed his great task."

Probe Report That Wilson Had Met With Bodily Harm

NEW YORK, May 11.—The governing committee and members of the New York stock exchange started an investigation today to determine the source of a persistent rumor that President Wilson had met with harm. The report caused a violent selling movement which resulted in one of the most severe declines in prices within several days. The decline lasted until an official denial of the rumor was received from Washington. The exchange governers said the rumor, so far as they could learn, had its origin in Pittsburg. Some officials were inclined to believe it had been deliberately circulated to cause a decline in stocks.

Vienna Thinks America Will Respect Germany Now

VENICE, VIA LONDON, May 11.—The newspapers of Vienna justify the sinking of the Lusitania on the ground that she was "virtually an auxiliary cruiser."

The Neue Freie Presse says:

"The sinking of the liner is equivalent to a naval defeat, and perhaps one result of the incident will be the collapse in America of faith in England and greater regard for the German empire."

1,200 BRITISH OFFICERS ARE SLAIN IN TEN DAYS

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 11.—The British casualty list for the past ten days contains the names of 1,200 British and colonial officers.

SEIZE GERMAN SHIPS IS CONSUL MAY'S IDEA

Although he doesn't speak officially, Dr. F. E. May, the French consul here, suggests that the way for the United States to assure herself of indemnity for the sinking of the Lusitania is to seize all German vessels now in American ports.

These vessels are worth millions of dollars, and their seizure just now, Dr. May thinks, would assure the United States of proper action on the part of Germany.

DR. E. C. BROWN TELLS HOW HE LOST HUNDRED

Principal Gone but Alleged Accomplices on Trial for Cheating

A large crowd in Judge Andrew Calhoun's court room Tuesday morning listened with interest to Dr. E. C. Brown's story of how C. D. Harris last January cheated him out of $100 by passing a worthless check.

Harris was not on trial and not in the court room, having departed to parts unknown, but H. L. Chandler and Mrs. Lillian Lombard, who were with Harris when he passed the check, were present and on trial for cheating and swindling, and Dr. Brown's testimony was introduced for the purpose of implicating them in the deal.

Briefly summed up, Dr. Brown's account of the affair was as follows:

One day last January Harris fell in front of Brown & Allen's drug store at Whitehall and Alabama streets. Chandler picked him up and carried him into the store, posing as his valet. Dr. Brown gave him a restorative and he got better right away.

Then Harris began a spiel about being a California millionaire on an automobile tour of the south with his wife, his valet and his chauffeur. He thanked Dr. Brown with great cordiality for his hospitality and expressed a wish that Dr. Brown might meet his wife. The upshot of the conversation was that Harris telephoned for his wife and his car, and presently Mrs. Lillian Lombard appeared in a large six-cylinder automobile driven by a natty chauffeur, and the party, including Dr. Brown, went for a spin over Fulton county's splendid roads.

On returning to the drug store Dr. Brown carried them to his office and treated them to a quart of grape juice, extra dry, and as his guests were taking their leave Harris blushingly confessed that he had lost his letter of credit and was in need of a bit of ready cash.

Would Dr. Brown be kind enough to cash a $250 check for him?

Dr. Brown balked at $250 but was willing to take a chance on $100 and the transaction was closed accordingly, Harris giving his check on a bank in a small town in New York.

It was several days before Dr. Brown discovered that he had been stung. Learning that Harris had pulled a fall in front of Cruickshank's cigar store and threatened to sue, and a fall in front of the Piedmont hotel with similar threats, Dr. Brown telegraphed to the New York bank and received a reply that Harris' balance amounted to exactly $2.01.

In the meantime Harris had flown, but Chandler and Mrs. Lombard were arrested on a charge of being in the conspiracy. They filed suits aggregating $40,000 against Dr. Brown for false arrest, but these suits are not involved in the present trial.

The case occupied all the morning in Judge Calhoun's court and will run into Wednesday.

WRITERS' CLUB NAMES OFFICERS FOR THE YEAR

At the annual meeting Monday of the Atlanta Writers' club the following officers were elected: Mrs. Thomas Peters, honorary president; W. F. Parkhurst, president; Mrs. J. O. Parmelee, vice president; Mrs. Robert C. Patterson, secretary; Milton McGovern, treasurer; Henry Albert Phillips, 153 Fifth avenue, New York City, literary critic.

Kaiser Asks Queen To Keep Italy Out Of Austrian War

Mother of Italian King Retorts That They "Rule One at a Time in the House of Savoy," Is the Report

(By Associated Press.)

ROME, May 11.—(Via Paris.)—The Agency National says Emperor William has written to Dowager Queen Margherita, mother of King Victor Emmanuel, pointing out advantages he believes would accrue to Italy should it remain neutral, and urging her to avoid a conflict with Austria.

The widow of King Humbert is quoted as having replied to the German ruler "In the House of Savoy we reign one at a time."

Emperor William is reported to have previously written an almost identical letter to the Italian king.

The Milan Secolo asserts that Italy demanded the integrity of Serbia and Belgium as a condition of its neutrality, and that this was one of the chief causes of delay in the conversation.

EQUITABLE OFFICIAL SAYS TIMES ARE GOOD

Basic business conditions in the United States are better now than they have been in twenty-five years, according to John D. Lunger, vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance society of New York, who is here after a tour of the south.

In fact, conditions were better at the outbreak of the war than for twenty-five years, Mr. Lunger said. This condition he ascribes to the fact that there has been a steady liquidation, followed by economy, and a cessation of wild speculation of all kinds.

Although the war has unsettled things, Mr. Lunger said, the conditions now are even better than they were last August, and he considered that the country was never it finer shape for a sustained advance.

He added that the south had advanced more in the past ten years than any other section, and it would be bound to feel the effect of prosperity.

Anti-German Rioting Keeps Up in Liverpool

(By Associated Press.)

LIVERPOOL, May 11.—Anti-German demonstrations were continued throughout yesterday and last evening by thousands of infuriated citizens here and in nearby towns.

German shops were visited simultaneously, looted and then set on fire, while their stocks were carried off openly.

The police were virtually helpless as only small contingents could be present at each place attacked.

The fire department was kept busy all evening extinguishing fires.

All Germans and Austrians in Liverpool will be interned and naturalized Germans will be advised to leave the city for their own safety. Fifty already have been interned.

J. J. Kern, who was German consul at Liverpool when the war broke out and who formerly was president of the Cotton association, yesterday resigned his membership in that association.

PLAN RIGID PROBE INTO ALL CITY DEPARTMENTS

Chamber Directors Vote to Name Committee of 100 Men and 25 Women

After "panning" the city government generally, the directors of the chamber of commerce, in session Monday, voted to appoint a committee of 100 men and 25 women to make an exhaustive investigation of all of the city's various departments.

The committee will be appointed within a few days by President Mell R. Wilkinson, of the chamber.

The agitation relative to conditions in the public school system caused the discussion, which led to the determination of the chamber of commerce to make the probe.

Judge George Hillyer, one of the speakers at the meeting declared that in 1871 conditions were worse in the city than they are at the present time, but that after an investigation by a committee of citizens a new charter was obtained with the result that the city was soon pulled out of debt, and its departments made adequate to meet conditions.

It is generally predicted that the most probable outcome of the investigation will be increased agitation for a new charter for Atlanta.

Besides the directors of the chamber a number of ladies took part in the deliberations Monday. Among them were Mrs. William Percy, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, Mrs. Clark Howell, Mrs. V. H. Kreigshaber and Mrs. R. M. Walker.

Frederick J. Paxon, who first made the suggestion of an investigating committee several days ago, was one of the speakers, and he told of a trip though some of the schools, declaring he found deplorable conditions existing.

Robert F. Maddox, H. A. Maier, Julian Boehm, Lindsey Hopkins, Cater Woolford, Ivan E. Allen, and Walter G. Cooper were among the other speakers.

Mr. Maddox, a former mayor, said the city's financial condition is bad, and a number of the departments are demoralized.

John S. Owens, alderman from the Eighth ward, was the only official of the city government to speak, and he asserted that one of Atlanta's greatest troubles now is the lack of interest of the general public in civic affairs. He said that while fully 20,000 ballots should be cast in every election in the city that there are only 10,000 registered voters and only about half of that number ordinarily go to the polls.

Funeral Service for Noted Negro Minister Will Be Held Next Week

The body of Bishop Henry M. Turner, colored, head of the house of bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal church, arrived in Atlanta Monday night from Windsor, Canada, where he died last Saturday.

The body was accompanied by a number of Michigan ministers and was met at the train by the deceased's widow, two grand-daughters and about 100 friends.

The body of Bishop Turner will lie in state at his home 30 Yonge street, until Tuesday, May 18, when it will be removed to the Big Bethel church, where on the following day the funeral services will be conducted either by Bishop Evans Tyree, of New York, or Bishop J. S. Flipper, of Georgia.

Dr. John Turner, of Philadelphia, and David Turner, two sons of the deceased will reach Atlanta Tuesday. The funeral service has been delayed because of the request of Bishops H. B. Parks and John Hurst, now in Pueblo, Colorado, that the funeral not be held until their arrival here.

FRANK CASE MAY BE PASSED ON TO HARRIS

Governor Slaton Indicates Clemency Petition May Not Reach Him

In a statement given the Associated Press in New York Monday evening Governor Slaton indicated that it might be necessary for him to grant Leo M. Frank a respite, in which event Frank's petition for a commutation of his death sentence to one of life imprisonment would be passed upon by Governor-elect Nat E. Harris, who becomes governor of Georgia Saturday, June 26.

Governor Slaton, who with Mrs. Slaton is spending a several days' vacation in New York, told a representative of the Associated Press that he might not be called to act upon Frank's petition because the state prison commission might require more time to consider the case than is afforded by the sentence of the court which fixed the date of Frank's execution for June 22. Should the prison commission fail to pass upon Frank's petition before the date set for his execution it will probably unite with Frank's attorneys in asking Governor Slaton for a respite.

The Associated Press dispatch from New York follows:

New York, May 10.—Governor John M. Slaton, of Georgia, in a statement made here tonight regarding action which he might take in the appeal of attorneys for clemency for Leo M. Frank, said there was a possibility that he might not be called on to act in the case. He said the board of prison commissioners of Georgia adjourned its sessions last week to convene again June 7. Governor Slaton's term expires June 26.

The governor stated that it probably would take some time for the board to review the evidence in Frank's case and that its recommendation might not be in hand before the time for his successor, Judge N. E. Harris, to take office.

Newcomers, welcome to our city.

President Wilson's ovation in Philadelphia doesn't seem to indicate a Republican landslide.

Why go to California when you can spend your summer in Atlanta and still see a fair in the fall?

Thoughtfulness in a Crisis.

America's self-possession in the shadow of the Lusitania tragedy is significant and assuring. It means that whatever is done will be done thoughtfully, from a deep sense of justice and honor, not on an impulse of anger and revenge. And that means in turn that whatever is done will be done wisely and well.

It would not have been unnatural had a wave of fierce indignation overswept the country upon the news that more than a hundred Americans had been killed without warning or warrant. The torpedoing of a defenseless passenger ship carrying noncombatants and neutrals is enough to strain the composure of the most judicious people, and there is no mistaking the fact that the American people feel outraged and resentful. For this very reason, however, their restraint and disposition to go cautiously is the more remarkable and gratifying.

Public sentiment as reflected by representative newspapers throughout the nation is notably cool. There is little if any jingoism. The gravity of the situation has had a sobering effect. Men do not know what the future may bring forth, but they know that hasty, ill-considered action would be unfortunate for this country and for the interests of civilization which the United States represents.

Hence there is a virtually unanimous agreement that the Administration should be left free to handle this serious matter and should be supported in the line of action it finally takes. The country has confidence in the President. It understands that he is in a better position than anyone else to view the facts of the case broadly, and on those facts to reach a conclusion that will be wise and just and honorable.

This May wehther is bad on the hopes of May picnics.

In the rush of other news, one loses sight of Barnes and Roosevelt.

In fact, the Republicans are in danger of being buried by the landslide.

Utter Lawlessness.

Though the term "international law" has scant significance at this stage of Europe's savage conflict, there are certain principles of civilization and certain instincts of humanity which each of the belligerents was expected to observe. Pirates and highwaymen frankly cast aside all scruples of conscience or pity, but nations dare not do so, unless they would forfeit their place among the governments of the world and stand convicted universally as anarchists and enemies of mankind. War at its best is brutal; no glamour of chivalry can gild the sordid horror of a battlefield. But even war at its fiercest has limits and rules which civilized peoples consider binding, whatever exigencies may arise.

Among these rules is one requiring that before a merchant vessel or passenger ship of the enemy is destroyed its passengers and crew must be taken off; and if there are neutrals aboard, this obligation is doubly imperative. The reason and justice of such a regulation are obvious. Noncombatants ought not to be treated as combatants; women and children ought not to be treated as soldiers on the firing line; citizens of a neutral and friendly nation ought not to be treated as enemies in the field. These truths are so self evident that to state them seems tiresomely superfluous.

Yet, it is these very truths which the German admiralty has flung overboard in its mad sea carnage. The torpedoing of the Lusitania, with the consequent death of hundreds of persons who in no sense were combatants and many of whom were neutrals, is so monstrous an act that the world's mind staggers in contemplating it. Had not the thing actually been done, we should have considered it impossible. Violation of treaties, air raids on undefended villages, the burning of Louvaine, the use of poisonous gases and dumdum bullets—these and divers other deeds of the kind could be accounted for, though not justified, by the headlong passion of war or on grounds of military necessity. But the cold-blooded destruction of a helpless passenger ship without warning and without effort to rescue even the women and children who were aboard, is a deed without precedent in the code or practice of civilization.

An authority on this phase of international law declares that the rule vouchsafing protection to the passengers and crew of a vessel "is of such universal acceptance that the text writers mention it only in passing allusions, as when Holland says, if a ship with contraband cargo belong beyond question to the enemy the captor may, after taking off the crew, sink the ship; and further, in the rules relating to the capture of prizes, adopted by the Institute of International Law at Turin in 1882, it was declared that in any case, the captor must remove the persons on board." This rule was accepted by the German government as binding, and in the earlier stages of the war was closely followed by the commanders of German commerce destroyers. The captain of the Emden was very careful in his treatment of the crews and passengers of the merchant ships he captured, going so far in some instances as to let an enemy vessel escape when there was no means of providing for noncombatants. But now the German admiralty overleaps the plainest and highest obligations in this respect, and exults in the slaughter that follows.

This defiance of law and disregard of humanity is not confined to ships of the foe, it springs with equal savagery upon the ships and lives of neutral nations. A few days before the torpedoing of the Lusitania, the American owned ship Gulflight was sunk in the English Channel by a German submarine, was sunk without challenge or warning; and three of the crew, American citizens, were lost. Aside from the destruction of life, the destruction of the vessel itself was flagrantly in violation of the Treaty of London, to which Germany had subscribed. "A neutral vessel, which has been captured," says Article 48 of that treaty, "may not be destroyed by the captor; she must be taken into such port as is proper for the determination there of all questions concerning the validity of the capture." The sinking of the Gulflight reveals a policy of utter lawlessness toward friend and foe alike. Vessels of Holland, Denmark, Sweden and other neutral countries have suffered the same fate from Germany's submarine war. All the restraints and scruples of a responsible government have been torn away and trampled upon.

This conduct is as unfortunate for Germany as for its victims. Its military gains, if any, are negligible compared with its moral losses. The New York World truly observes: "The Germans have sunk the largest British ship in active mercantile servce. They have destroyed a small quantity of munitions of war. They have killed a large number of Americans and noncombatants. In the long run, they might better have lost a battle."

England having indicted the kaiser for murder, it is up to England to arrest him.

"Germany blames Lusitania horror on Great Britain." But we have yet failed to see where Germany was quick to take the blame for anything.

Town and Country Wealth.

"Farm Engineering" directs attention to the interesting fact that while the average yearly income of dwellers in cities and towns is less than nine hundred dollars, that of the farmers is approximately twenty-two hundred dollars. The total valuation of farm production this year, it estimates, will pass the ten-billion-dollar mark. Further:

"Bankers have reckoned that there are in cities and towns approximately 1,200,000 families worth over $5,000 each. But there are over 1,000,000 farm families worth over $25,000 each, and 3,000,000 farm families worth over $10,000 each. There are over 4,000,000 farm families worth over $6,000 each."

It is not to be inferred from these figures, however, that every man on the farm is rolling in wealth. Intelligent farming undoubtedly assures independence and brings many advantages which the town and city lack. But slipshod farming on the other hand brings its penalties as certainly as do inefficient methods in any pursuit.

The Louisville Courier-Journal well says in this connection that a logical comparison between town and country can be made only by including farm wage earners with farmers who own land: "A man who has $20,000 or $25,000 invested in the country and, in addition, invests his time is earning upon his efforts only about one-half of an income of $2,200, or but little more than the average city income."

The various amateur war councils have adjourned, having decided to leave the matter with Wilson.

Are the Men Lazy?

BY E. K. WOOLEY.

THIS garden is entirely woman made," quoth my suburban hostess.

We were wandering about her 50x175 home grounds, and I had been particularly admiring the state of the kitchen garden in the rear, occupying a space some fifty feet wide and forty feet deep.

"Woman made!" I exclaimed. "How is that, when you have two perfectly good men in the family? However, I presume they did the digging, anyway."

"Indeed they didn't," she assured. "Not a man has set his foot in that vegetable garden this spring, and for a while I thought we weren't going to have any garden at all this year.

"The old Civil war veteran who used to putter around for us and the neighbors has gone to an old soldiers' home. He was awfully slow, but he was a treasure while he lasted, simply because we couldn't get anybody else.

"Now there's quite a bit of gardening work to be done around here, and the old man took care of himself quite nicely by the money we all paid him. But when it comes to digging, we discovered this spring that even a man out of a job thinks he's too good for it or not strong enough for it.

"My own men folk never had time. It beats all how busy a man can get when there's something at home he doesn't want to do. There was that garden just suffering for the application of masculine muscle, and not a male in the neighborhood willing to exert himself, though goodness knows they all need the exercise.

"We left word at all the stores to send around anybody who wanted work. We inquired at the downtown employment agencies. But nobody cared to come out here, nobody wanted to handle a spade, and one and all turned up their noses at our rate of pay—$1.50 for an eight-hour day.

"One husky young fellow deigned to stop in one day—said he'd heard we wanted a man. I could see he didn't like the job the minute I mentioned digging. He informed me that he made $4 and $5 a day in the shop as a machinist—when he had work. He said he couldn't work for me that day, and the next day was Saturday, and he never worked on Saturday. He thought he might come Monday, but wasn't sure. Anyway, he hasn't shown up since.

"The woman who works for me by the day is a fine, buxom German. She sympathized with our plight and said she would see if her man wouldn't come to help us out, as he wasn't working regularly. But apparently it would have hurt her man's prestige to do any digging, for he suddenly got busy at something else. Then my German woman offered herself as a digger of gardens.

"'I am big and strong,' she said, 'and I need the money. I am not ashamed to do honest work. And I know how to make garden.'

"So she and I have done every bit of the garden work this year—though I think things are coming to a pretty pass when one has to hire a woman to do man's labor while there are so many husky young fellows around too 'tired' to work.

"One of our neighbors followed our example and has hired my woman for certain days in the week to do her gardening, while another neighbor is paying her maid—a strong Hungarian girl—extra to do the heavy work in the garden. This neighbor is what I call white. I know some women who have been making their maids put in extra time making gardens, lawn mowing and such, without paying them a cent extra—while the man of the house squats on the front porch and smokes a pipe. Say—I'd hate to be as lazy as some men, wouldn't you?"

Beware Psychic Contagion.

BY H. ADDINGTON BRUCE.

(Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Psychology and Parenthood," etc.)

Psychic contagion under certain circumstances is fully as deadly as the contagion of a physical disease. It is time this truth was enforced on the mind of everybody.

In its simplest form psychic contagion is seen in the tendency to yawn when one glimpses another person yawning. It is also in evidence in the almost equally prevalent tendency to cough when, in church, at the theater, or in some other place of public resort, another person is heard coughing.

What this means is that human beings tend to imitate one another. To say this is only another way of saying that they are suggestible.

The trouble is that they are imitative and suggestible not alone with regard to trivial things, but also with regard to matters seriously affecting their welfare.

Psychic contagion was responsible for the disgrace of the Salem witchcraft persecutions in the days of the forefathers. It is responsible for the panics, the massacres that so often disgrace civilization today.

Let an alarm of fire be given, and let one foolish man or woman start on a run for the door. Instantly, unless some strong counter-suggestion is given by somebody who has kept his head, the suggestion of fear conveyed by the sight of the fleeing form will, through psychic contagion, seize nearly everybody present.

A mad rush for safety will follow—a rush too often causing a disaster that would otherwise have been averted.

Psychic contagion is likewise to blame for the often observed fact that if a murder be committed in some unusual way other murders similarly committed are likely to be recorded within the next few days.

So, too, suicides not infrequently occur as a result of psychic contagion; and to it must be credited the "wave of crime," particularly of burglary and highway robbery, occurring from time to time in all large cites.

All of which proves that the world is full of unduly suggestible people. Are you in this unduly suggestible class?

The answer to this question may be of tremendous importance to you. Study yourself carefully and candidly. Try to determine whether you are more susceptible to the influence of other people's example than to the dictates of your own reason.

Do you uncritically accept and absorb whatever ideas are suggested to you by your reading? If you do, you ought at once to begin cultivating in earnest the exercise of critical judgment, and to train yourself diligently to think before you act.

The Letter.

I came upon a faded sheet today,
A tender message blurred by youthful tears,
A sad reminder of departed years.
I took it tenderly from where it lay,
Within the sacred confines of a chest
Where other sweet mementos, long ago,
She left behind a world of toil and woe,
And journeyed to a land where all is rest.

Between the faded lines I see her face,
Smiling as she used to smile on me
When in the dusk we crossed the greening lea.
Our arms encircled in a fond embrace.
I live again those old and happy days,
And listen to the rhythmic stream that swells
And wends about the cottage where she dwells;
I hear in accents sweet the tender lays.

O days of youth that never will return,
And dawn of love that never more will rise
To beautify the earth before my eyes!
For you my saddened heart will ever yearn,
And unforgotten days that long have passed.
The fault was mine, for I had willed it so;
I chose the throbbing life I did not know—
All else is gone, but still the memories last!

NATIONAL COMMENT ON THE LUSITANIA

(New York World.)

What President Wilson described in his speech at the Associated Press luncheon as the "splendid courage of reserve moral force" has never been more commendably displayed than by the American people in relation to the Lusitania atrocity.

Outside the inner circles of a subsidized German propaganda, there seems to be only one opinion in this country. That opinion is that the torpedoing of the Lusitania was cowardly and infamous, and that the American citizens who lost their lives were murdered in cold blood by deliberate act of the German government.

As Oscar Strauss says, "the incident puts a tremendous strain upon our neutrality;" yet there is little of froth or fury. The very gravity of the case has produced a corresponding soberness of public opinion. There is no sentiment anywhere in favor of hasty action; but there is sentiment everywhere in favor of a firm, dispassionate, uncompromising vindication of lawful American rights on the part of the United States government.

There is no disposition "to rock the boat," to use President Wilson's expressive phrase; but there is a general disposition to insist that the German government must stop rocking the boat.

(Philadelphia Public Ledger.)

Only one word characterizes adequately the policy of Germany in this matter. That word is piracy. There is no shadow of excuse for it in military necessity. All the submarines in the German navy are not enough to cut Great Britain off from sea-borne supplies. The number of ships already sunk is a very small percentage of the total of British commerce. Even with the Lusitania a total loss, there is absolutely no justification for the attack. For the spirit that dictated the attempt there can be only horror and contempt. The risk of destroying non-combatant human life was no deterrent to these pirates in German uniform. It was done purposely with a full knowledge of the consequences.

(New York Globe.)

The duty of this government is sufficiently clear. In a formal and emphatic manner, not shrinking from explicit characterization, it should denounce the greatest international outrage that has occurred since the Boxer savages of China, with the countenance of a treacherous government, attacked the women and children in the legations at Pekin. No doubt should be left of our feeling and attitude, or of the duties that we conceive to be laid on us as one of the custodians of the larger and abiding interests of civilization. Such a declaration and definition of view is the first thing.

The next thing should be the issuance of an invitation to the neutrals which, like ourselves, are victims of the berserker fury of combatants in the present war to meet us in conference. This conference, conservatively yet firmly, should formulate just demands and indicate that, if necessary, they would be upheld by force. It is time to take steps toward organizing a league of armed neutrality such as the northern powers of Europe were driven to organize to meet the conditions created by Napoleon's Berlin and Milan decrees and Great Britain's answering orders in council.

(New York Herald.)

Through the press this country has spoken on the Lusitania horror almost as with one voice. From ocean to ocean comes a swelling chorus of denunciation, coolly stated, without a suggestion of bluster and with no intimation of a desire to dictate to the president.

In many scores of newspaper comments, aside from those appearing in the German-American press there is but one—the San Francisco Chronicle—which places the blame for the Lusitania's dead upon the shoulders of the dead, for being on the ship. There is no division of party in this crisis. Everybody except the partisans of Germany, through blood or "boodle," are united and behind the chief magistrate.

It is better to wait than to try to map out a course for the president. Give him time, and pray that God may give him wisdom and courage.

(New York Times.)

Germany snapped her fingers at the laws of war and at the law of morality when she did this deed of blood. She put herself outside the domain of law, and it is a frequent comment upon her behavior that by that act she confessed herself to be an outlaw nation. We know now how she makes war, how she intends to make war—that discussion is ended. Had we known on August 1 what is now made so painfully clear to us we should beyond all doubt have taken a different course. We passed over in silence the lawless violence and outrage visited upon Belgium by the German invaders although many prominent Americans insisted that we should then have registered our firm protest against cruel spoliation in violation of neutral rights under treaty signed by the spoiler. We should have protested, doubtless, against the promiscuous sowing of mines in the North sea by Germany, we should have shown less forbearance in the cases of the Fyre and the Cushing, the Falaba and the Gulflight.

Now that we are warned that Germany has resolved to make war in disregard of the laws of God and man like a Malay running amuck, we know what to do. The time for protests has passed. It becomes now our duty as a nation to demand that Germany shall find means to carry on her war without putting our citizens to death. It is a demand in which other neutral nations will have the right to join, for aboard the Lusitania there were Danes, Swedes, Greeks, Italians and other neutrals.

(New York Sun.)

There are times in a nation's life when restraint of utterance may be truer patriotism than patriotic talk. This is not the day on which to search the dictionary for white hot adjectives to inflame a public sentiment that will make harder the administration's task. All Americans of undivided allegiance are behind the government at Washington; but that should not mean that loyal Americans are behind their government to push it to precipitate action, to lash it with vehement demands and passionate council. Let us all count ten, or a hundred, or a thousand, if necessary, before giving full expression to the indignation and impotence of fury that fills our souls. We could be no worse for it; matters may be much better for it in the long run. This advice about pausing and counting before uttering applies to everybody, including former presidents of the United States. As for the "American" of divided allegiance, those who are today discovering reasons for partisan satisfaction and even for personal joy in the horror of Friday's non-combatant death list, it strikes us that the time is peculiarly opportune for silence and self-examination on their part.

MAKING WRITERS

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

THAT time-worn and oft-quoted saying about poets being born and not made, which has generally been applied to writers of all kinds, is being vigorously controverted by modern colleges. If they are not literally making poets, they certainly are making dramatists, short story writers and numerous competent journalists, from whose numbers the great majority of writers of all sorts are drawn.

Of course, the old saying remains true to the extent that it takes born aptitude to make a writer of any sort, but this is no more true of a good newspaper man or magazine writer, or even a popular fictioneer than it is of almost any other profession. All of the really successful politicians, for example, are obviously born ones, and this is still more the case with lawyers, and cooks, and bankers, and baseball players. Innate aptitude is a prerequisite of genuine success in any line. No doubt time was when only inspired genius could command a hearing, and even genius needed a patron to keep it alive. But within the past quarter of a century writing has become a profession in America with as wide a field and as many opportunities as any other.

Our tremendous output of near literature in the form of newspapers, magazines and trade journals demands an army of writers and editors; and, needless to say, genius is not what it calls for. A modicum of talent, combined with common sense and hard work, win the highest rewards in modern journalism. Yet, the old belief that writing is a profitless, visionary occupation and that literary talent is a sort of affliction still gains a remarkably wide acceptance. The young man who shows a tendency to sit up late at night and scribble is advised by his friends, who pride themselves upon their common sense, to cut it out and get a job on the farm. As a matter of fact, the boy's inborn tendency to write is a guarantee that if he has it in him to work he can make more in the newspaper game in a year than he could on the farm in five.

Furthermore, this boy now has at command the means to develop his talent and to discover its real worth. Beginning with the Pulitzer foundation at Columbia university, schools of journalism have spread all over the country with the rapidity of a contagion, while all of the larger universities are offering courses in drama and fiction that are designed to fit men to write.

The desire to write seems to spare no one. The short story contest, which have become popular of recent years, have brought forth startling proof of the fact. Whenever a big prize has been offered, manuscripts have poured in by the thousand, and they have come from every conceivable class and occupation. A farm hand working for $6 a week sent to a recent competition a manuscript which, according to the editor, lacked only finish to make it a powerful piece of work. A boy of fifteen sent a cloak and sword romance so full of glow and color that the judges had to harden their hearts to send it back. But these were among the enlightened. There were thousands of others in every mark of ignorance and unpreparedness. The great majority of literary aspirants seem to sit and toil in darkness. It is to these hopeless ones that the spread of literary education should mean most. With schools of journalism springing up all over the country, they can develop their abilities, if they have any, and, if not, they can quickly and finally learn the fact.

Only a year ago practical journalists were scoffing at the new-born Pulitzer school; today even the smallest colleges are adding courses in journalism to their curriculums. A few months ago Knox college, at Galesburg, Ill., introduced a course in journalism to answer to a strenuous demand from the student body. Most typical of American schools of journalism is the fact that Max Goodsell, the city editor of the Galesburg Evening Mail, was made professor of the school. The University of Minnesota has also established a course in journalism within the last few months, and William P. Kirkwood left the Minneapolis Journal to teach his profession in the new school. Industrial journalism is a new course recently installed in New York university. The Oregon state legislature recently authorized its newly established department of journalism to operate a printing plant as a journalism laboratory. The desire for journalistic training has penetrated even into the wilderness, and the school board of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, has established public night classes in journalism.

These are only a few instances which might be multiplied by the column. The spread of the school of journalism idea in this country has been almost unprecedented. It is striking proof of the widespread need for training in expression.

Joseph Pulitzer must be given credit for having originated the idea. The school of journalism that he endowed at Columbia was the first, and it set the standard of absolutely practical instruction which characterizes all American schools of journalism. Robert E. MacAlarney, formerly of the New York Evening Post, was made instructor in the Pulitzer school, and he proceeded to teach the newspaper game as he knew it. The day's news was analyzed on the blackboard, and the students were sent to cover it like any other reporters. Typical of MacAlarney's methods is the fact that he sent a man to cover the Becker trial without any police card to gain him admission.

"How am I going to get in?" demanded the astonished freshman.

"Any way you can," replied this very modern professor. "You might find yourself up against a proposition like this any time in the newspaper game."

The freshman got in and covered the trial. MacAlarney never even asked him how he did it.

Courses in journalism, however, are not all practical newspaper work. Modern languages and law are an important part of them. The advantage which this sort of knowledge will give the college journalist over the untrained man is self-evident.

The practical character, as given in the course of journalism at Columbia, is duplicated in all of the smaller colleges. Thus the daily paper of the University of Washington is publishing red-hot war correspondence, Almar Auzias de Turenne, a member of the class of 1913, being at the front with the British army. Students of the School of Journalism of Texas recently covered a local fair for all of the local papers and the Associated Press, and did it in first-class style.

Another very interesting feature of these courses of journalism is the number of women who are taking them. Women are breaking into the newspaper game more and more every day, and the next generation is going to see a great number of highly trained women writers taking their places beside men. The women of the University of Michigan recently edited, without masculine assistance, a number of the "Gargoyle," the college humorous publication. In all of the schools of journalism where they can gain admission the women are well represented, and are showing a startling aptitude for getting and writing news.

All of the more complete courses in journalism include instruction in article writing, and usually in short story work, so that practical preparation for magazine as well as newspaper work is afforded. Furthermore, the spread of instruction in journalism has been paralleled by a development of practical courses in literature. Not many years ago the study of literature in any university consisted largely of reading and analyzing Shakespeare's plays and the essays of Addison and Steele. Then, gradually, the professors began taking notice of the short story, the only native American literature, and some of the courses were purely "cultural," and not designed to teach anyone how to write stories. Gradually, instruction in literature has become more and more practical until, today, men of ability are graduated from college and into magazine offices. For example, there is a course in short story writing at Columbia university which requires the student to write some thirty of every sorts of stories, and which has for its purpose solely to teach him how to write. Similar practical courses in the drama are found in many of the larger universities, the classical example being the advanced course in Harvard, which produced Edward Sheldon and Edward Knoblauch, two of the most promising young dramatists now wrting for the American stage. A number of plays written by members of this class have been produced on Broadway.

Thus has writing become within a few years a profession which may be taught and learned as well as law or medicine. Thorough instruction in journalism, which is the first step of almost every literary career, is within the reach of almost everyone. These things bode well not only for the literary aspirant, who has heretofore worked alone and in ignorance, but for the future of literary and journalistic standards in this country.

NO HOPE REMAINS OF MORE SURVIVORS OF LOST CUNARDER

Scarcity of Life Belts Now Blamed for Heavy Death Roll of American Men, Who Gave Them to Women

(By Associated Press.)

QUEENSTOWN, May 11.—Recovery today of the body of Albert Thompson, of Toronto, found by an admiralty trawler near the coast not far from the scene of the Lusitania disaster, led to the hope that additional bodies might be found in that vicinity. Ten unidentified bodies also have been landed at Baltimore, forty-seven miles southwest of Cork. All hope of finding further survivors now has been abandoned.

A current of from two and one-half to three knots races around Old Head Kinsale, and this has been augmented by a stiff east wind, which at the end of eight or nine days may carry bodies ashore around Cape Clear, on the west Irish coast. The winds ordinarily prevailing would have brought bodies ashore on the Atlantic coast of Cornwall, England.

The Cunard company, after much trouble, has sent a tug to the scene of the disaster with instructions to run into the nearest cove and inform Cunard officials here if even a single body is found.

Sixteen bodies were brought into Queenstown this afternoon by a tug chartered by the Cunard line. None of the bodies has yet been identified.

There are indications that the heavy death roll among the American men in the first cabin was due to a scarcity of life belts, many of them having given the life preservers they had obtained to helpless women. There is a preponderance of testimony that no American man got into a boat until after he had been thrown into the water.

When the Lusitania was in her death throes there was no cooler group aboard than that composed of Madame de Page, Herbert S. Stone, Linden W. Bates, Jr., and Dr. J. T. Houghton. The last named was the only survivor of the party. This little band guided women and children, supplied life belts, bound up the wounds of other passengers, and then plunged hopelessly into the sea, having given up their own life preservers.

Another throng of anxious friends and relatives arrived here last night, but the chances of identifying more of the dead are remote. The great pits in the cemetery are filled with those buried as unknown, while other bodies which come ashore soon will be beyond identification.

Webb Wade, secretary to Alfred G. Vanderbilt, has not yet been able to arrange with the authorities to charter tugs at the expense of the Vanderbilt family to search for other bodies as well as that of Mr. Vanderbilt.

All the American dead have been embalmed, their bodies and those of a number of British first cabin passengers, were not included in today's funerals. Hysterical scenes of relatives who is being made among the dead by survivors. Arthur Courtland Luck, of Massachusetts, arrived at Queenstown so dazed to remember how or where he had been rescued and began a search among the dead for the bodies of his wife and two children.

The body of Mme. Mary de Page, wife of Dr. Antonie de Page, medical director of the Belgian Red Cross, is among the identified dead. She was bringing back $100,000 contributed in the United States to the BZelgian Red Cross fund. The money was in the liner's safe, and went down with the ship.

Dr. F. Warren Pearl, of New York, a surgeon major in the United States army during the Spanish-American war, and who was gound for Belgium on Red Cross work, was saved with his wife, who has a broken arm, and two of their children. Two other children and two nurses employed by Dr. Pearl are missing.

In the rush to the deck one of the two children were separated from the remainder of the family. Dr. Pearl left his wife in thecare of Herbert Stone and Lindon Bates, Jr., of New York, while he searched the ship. Mrs. Pearl says that she saw Mr. Stone and Mr. Bates go down when a wave washed over the port side of the ship.

"I was lunching with Mr. Stone, Mr. Bates, Madame de Page and Dr. J. T. Houghton when we felt a shock," said Dr. Pearl. "On my way to deck I saw Charles Frohman distributing life belts. Mr. Frohman evidently did not expect to escape, as he said to a woman passenger, 'Why should we fear death? It is the greatest adventure man can have.'

"When I reached the deck I found that one nurse and two of my children were missing. I discovered later they got into a boat, which was launched safely on the starboard side. I returned to the port side and jumped overboard.

"I saw no signs of panic. Officers and crew apparently were doing everything possible, but the explosion rendered the engines useless and it was impossible to slow down the ship. I did not know whether any of my family was safe until I got ashore after three hours in the water, in which I floated with the greatest ease on my life belt."

Consul Urges England to Search for the Bodies

LONDON, May 11.—Ambassador Page has received a note from American Consul Frost at Queenstown, urging him to make clear to the Cunard company and the British admiralty that "really effective measures to recover the 1,100 missing bodies from the Lusitania are imperative."

Mr. Page said today the embassy was doing everything possible to expedite the recovery of bodies and that he had assurances from the admiralty and the company that they were doing and would continue to do the same.

The embassy has taken steps to have the bodies of Americans embalmed, and upon identification will see that they are returned to America.

THEATERS

The vaudeville bill at the Forsyth this week is the best that has been offered there for several weeks. Some of the acts are better than others, but there is not a dull one.

The number most enthusiastically received Monday night was that of Montgomery and Moore. Montgomery is a comedian who also plays the piano, and Miss Moore gives clever character impersonations.

Foster Ball, the "veteran old man," ably assisted by Ford West, was another favorite. Ball appears this time in the role of a union veteran, who talks humorously of the events of 1861, and incidentally waxes mischievous about the time the veterans had at the Detroit reunion, when he confesses to have stayed out as late as 9:15 p. m.

Dorothy Toye was not as enthusiastically received as some of the others, but she has a very remarkable voice, although as a rule you don't expect much of vocalists who sing both soprano and tenor. There is nothing of the freak about her voice, however. She sangs in the grand opera manner, both in her soprano and tenor roles.

Belles and Beaux is a sentimental musical act that was applauded, and Bill Fruitt, the Cowboy Caruso, although he didn't especially remind one of Caruso, having a baritone voice that he could shift to falsetto and back again, was pleasing.

There were bicycle and juggling acts, to say nothing of moving pictures both at the beginning and the close of the performance. There is more variety and surprise in the bill this week than one generally sees in vaudeville.

Extra arrangements have been made by the Grand theater to provide for the immense audiences that are expected to attend the mammouth program to be offered today in Mary Pickford, starring in her most elaborate film production, "Fanchon, the Cricket," and the first installment of "The Goddess," Vitagraph's big serial photo-play featuring Anita Stewart and Earl Williams in a fantastic film story written by Gouverneur Morris and produced under the personal direction of that master of stagecraft, Ralph W. Ince. The Mary Pickford picture was shown at the Grand Monday and attracted hundreds of picture lovers.

LAKEWOOD FAIR GROUNDS BOOSTED BY STRIPLIN

Manager Declares Natural Site, When Improved, Will Be Finest in Country

R. M. Striplin, manager of the Southeastern fair at Lakewood, who arrived in Atlanta Monday and assumed his duties, declares Lakewood park is the finest natural fair ground site he has ever seen, and that when improved and beautified in accordance with the architect's plans, it will surpass anything in the country.

Mr. Striplin has seen all the permanent fairs, from the great establishment at Toronto, Canada, which has twenty-five or more buildings, to the Southwestern fair at Dallas, Tex.

Four years ago Mr. Striplin took charge of the Mississippi-Alabama fair, at Meridian, Miss., when it was just in the stage of the Southeastern fair in this city. He managed that fair from its building through four consecutive seasons, thoroughly demonstrating his ability in this work. He was selected by the directors of the Southeastern fair strictly on merit, and they consider the fair association very fortunate in securing his services.

Mr. Striplin made a trip over the fair grounds Monday afternoon in company with Mayor Woodward,Secretary Cooper, of the chamber of commerce; Chief of Construction Nym Hurt and representatives of the Clarke university (colored) for the purpose of negotiating for a right of way for a railroad side track through the university property to the fair grounds. This detail, all parties agreed, can be worked out very satisfactorily.

A contract was awarded Monday for the grading of the sites for the fair buildings and work will begin at once. The buildings will be located on the lake. On three sides it slopes in a natural circular terrace to the water's edge, forming a beautiful site for the fair.

KIMBALL HOUSE GOES BACK TO KIMBALL CO.

Receiver Is Ordered to Turn Property Over to the Owners

Upon petition of the H. I. Kimball Hotel company, of which John W. Grant is treasurer, owners of the Kimball House, alleging the non-payment of $6,000 rent for the two months of April and May, and stating that they, as owners of the hotel had the right to void the contract of lease if the rent was not paid within 20 days of the first of the month, Judge John T. Pendleton of the superior court ordered Arminius Wright recently appointed receiver, to turn the hotel over to the H. I. Kimball company.

Mr. Wright was appointed receiver several days ago by Judge Pendleton upon petition of Luke Fisher and others, creditors of H. H. Barnes and John C. Mabry, joint lessees of the hotel. In the petition to do away with the receivership, the H. I. Kimball company Tuesday alleged that Mabry and Barnes had sub-let the hotel on March to the Kimball House Operating company, of which Barnes is president; that they believed this company to be insolvent; that they believed Mabry to be insolvent; and that the rent of $3,400 a month had not been paid for the past two months.

The hotel property included in the suit embraces the store in the former Peachtree entrance, No. 1 Pryor street, the barber shop, etc. Rosser Compound, lips & Hopkins represent the H. I. Kimball company, and Burton Smith represents John S. Mabry.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS ARE DEFENDED BY ASHLEY

Councilman Admits Need of New Buildings but Denies Conditions Are 'Terrible'

Charges that terrible conditions exist in Atlanta's public school system have not been borne out by the investigation of Councilman Claude L. Ashley, of the fourth, according to statements he made Tuesday.

Councilman Ashley is a member of the special committee appointed by council to investigate the needs of the school department and has gone at the work with his usual thoroughness.

"Of the 61 public school buildings in the city," said Mr. Ashley, "I doubt if any fair committee can report that more than six or seven are in a bad condition.

"It is undoubtedly true that many of them are badly crowded and Atlanta needs a number of new schools. But very few of the institutions can be termen insanitary or even in bad condition.

"The Tenth street school, which has been the storm center, is an excellent school building. However, it is badly crowded now and I think the section it serves should have a new school, and probably that the Tenth street school should have an annex."

Mr. Ashley said that the number of new schools needed to take care of the children in the city could better be decided after the meeting of the special school committee Wednesday morning, when the reports of a number of subcommittees will be heard.

At the meeting of the school committee Councilman Ashley is going to urge that steps be taken toward the consolidation of the four high schools of the city into one great academdy.

Market in New York Closed 31 to 36 Points Higher Than Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 11.—The cotton market was much less active early today and local traders appeared to be taking a calmer view of the situation. Relatively steady cables were followed by an opening advance of from 6 to 10 points and active months sold about 14 to 17 points net higher during the early hours on covering and some demand from foreign and local trade sources. A feeling that the market had been liquidated and reports that spot markets had failed to follow the decline, probably hastened part of the buying.

After selling about 16 to 19 points net higher, prices reacted slightly under favorable weather reports during the middle of the morning, but trading was quiet and the undertone was steady shortly after middle with active months only 2 or 3 points off from the best.

Offerings continued light during the early afternoon and prices developed a firm undertone in sympathy with a firmer cotton and foreign buying, with active months selling 19 to 24 points net higher.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—Cotton rose 14 to 16 points today in the early trading. Cables were better than due and there appeared a firm undertone. Low and third months sold at a reaction on the pessimism hich has been prevailing for several days. Offerings were bullish on the comment buyers.

With momentary setbacks the market improved during the morning session and toward noon stood 17 to 19 points up. Offerings were moderate and well absorbed.

In the afternoon buying by spot interests gave the market a firm tone and at 1:30 prices were at a net advance of 23 to 24 points.

HAYWARD & CLARK'S COTTON LETTER.

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—Weather conditions have been favorable for cotton during the week but not over the western half of the belt but the rainfall was light in general. A rainfall covered the southeastern quarter of the belt to definitely wet the ground but conditions are not yet generally fair for weather with the exception of the Atlantic coast and Georgia and the Atlantic coast where more rain is likely.

A quarter of an acre perhaps more hopeful feeling over politics, largely the effect of the Russian peace talk and Chinese affairs affected opinion this morning and expectation of an improved demand in the near future encouraged a fair demand from shorts to cover any fresh buying not to be construed as a material change in values of 10 points.

The census report on consumption by our mills during April is expected Thursday or Friday. It should make a larger consumption than last year when it was 504,000 of which 25,000 were linters.

Improvements in the stock market helped cotton which held the early gains and on a stronger financial situation and considerable reduction in speculative risk by the recent political situation renders support more effective.

There was a political rumor that Austria had accepted Italy's last demands.

Spots are dull but prices are holding.

STOCKS

Union Pacific, Reading, Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Smelters and Copper Strong

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 11.—The stock market gave every indication at today's opening of its intention to shake off the depression caused by the sinking of the Lusitania.

Active stocks registered gains of 2 to 6 points, with not so much as a single initial decline in any quarter. United States Steel began with 5,000 shares at 53⅛ to 54¼, compared with yesterday's close of 50⅝. Reading, house, on sales of 3,000 shares, was quoted at 88 to 89½, a maximum rise of 3¾, and Bethlehem Steel, 5 to 6.

Coppers, motors and miscellaneous group gained 2 to 3 points. Specialties and rails were the features of the standard railways, gaining 3¼ to 4½.

Dullness continued as the chief feature of the market in the early afternoon. Following the usual course in such instances, Maxwell Motor issues were subject to liquidation as an initial dividend on the first preferred stock.

Bonds were irregular.

The market again became animated in the later dealings, some stocks making best prices of the day.

The closing was strong.

MRS. L. H. GOODLETT SUING FOR DIVORCE

G. B. Goodlett, a railway mail clerk on the Southern road between Atlanta and Greensboro, N. C., was made defendant Monday in a suit for divorce filed by his wife, Mrs. L. H. Goodlett, who alleged cruelty, declaring that on one occasion Goodlett chocked her until she fainted and that she had to go and live with her mother.

Asking divorce, attorney's fees, alimony and the custody of their three children—all under six years old—she also requested the court to order Goodlett's arrest to insure payment of the alimony requested.

Goodlett was taken into custody by Deputy Sheriff Chambers on a writ ne exiat, but later made $250 bond so that he might start on his run without delay.

Wheat Closed 5 1-4 to 6 1-2 Cents Higher--Corn, Oats, Pork and Sides Strong

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, May 11.—Wheat today showed decided strength, the result of general buying by commission houses. After opening at the same as last night to 1 cent higher, it scored a material advance all around.

Increasing reports of damage from Hessian fly caused a further sharp wheat advance. The close was strong at 5¼@6½c above last night. Corn took the same course. The opening, unchanged figures to ⅛c higher, was followed by a moderate general upturn.

Corn hardened still more on enlarged shipping sales, and closed strong at 1¾c to 2@2⅛c net advance.

Improved domestic call gave independent firmness to oats.

Provisions also went up grade.

Miss Jeannette Logan and Miss Willie Richardson entertained at a miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Pearl Dempsey, a bride elect. The living room was beautifully decorated with wild azaleas and the colors of pink and white were carried out in every detail.

The game of progressive old maid was played at four tables. Miss Sarah Cheney won the prize, an ivory fan, and Miss Dempsey cut the consolation, a pink crepe de chine handkerchief.

Those present were Miss Edith Couch, Miss Maud Couch, Miss Gladys Throwver, Miss Ruby Martin, Miss Thelma McCollum, Miss Anna Hale, Miss Mattie Lou Richardson Miss Willie Richardson, Miss Jeannette Logan, Miss Jessie Bledsoe, Miss Agnes McWhorter, Miss Martha Rice, Mrs. A. J. Young, Mrs. James Calloway, Mrs. J. M. Hewett, Mrs. W. S. Richardson, Mrs. E. T. Fuller, Mrs. Paul Beavers, Mrs. R. J. Hudson, Miss Marion Richardson, Miss Genevieve Webster, Miss Sarah Cheney and Miss Martha Fauss.

To Bride Elect

Mrs. Frank Golden entertained at auction bridge Tuesday afternoon, in honor of her niece, Miss Fannie Blanche Coleman, whose wedding to Mr. Kinnerly Newlin, of Albany, will be an event of Saturday.

Pink and white roses adorned the rooms in which the game was played, and the prizes of the afternoon included a hand-painted picture and an embroidered guest towel.

Mrs. Golden wore a pretty gown of black taffeta with touches of old rose, and the honor guest was gowned in blue taffeta.

Thirty guests were entertained.

WHEN YOU WASH YOUR HAIR DON'T USE SOAP

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—(Advt.)

Little Stories For Bedtime

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

No one had ever heard of a Mrs. Joe Otter, and yet if there wasn't a Mrs. Joe, how was it that Grandfather Frog and Peter Rabbit and Jerry Muskrat all three had seemed to see two little brown heads where the Laughing Brook comes into the Smiling Pond? For a while they talked it over between themselves. Each was sure that he had seen two. It was only for a moment, and then there was nothing to be seen. It was all very mysterious.

"Must be there was something the matter with our eyes," declared Jerry. "Little Joe is such an uneasy fellow that he never would be content to settle down with a home of his own. Besides, wherever would he have found Mrs. Joe, if there is one?"

"I don't know, but I'm going to find out," said Peter, hopping up. "I'm going to go right straight up the Laughing Brook and look for his home. If he's got one, I don't believe he can hide it from me." With this off started Peter, lipperty-lipperty-lip.

"Good luck to you, Peter. If you find anything come back and tell us," shouted Jerry Muskrat.

Up the Laughing Brook went Peter. Now he had no more idea than the man in the moon what kind of a home Little Joe Otter would be likely to have. He knew that Jerry Muskrat has two kinds of a home—one a hole in a bank and the other a house in the Smiling Pool. He knew that Paddy the Beaver builds the same kind of homes, only better. He knew that Billy Mink sometimes makes his home in a hollow log and sometimes under an old brush pile, and sometimes in a hole under a stump. Billy is not particular as to where his home is, but Peter didn't know where to look for Little Joe's home.

"He lives in the water even more than Billy Mink does, almost quite as much as Jerry Muskrat does, so I guess he probably has a home right close to the water," thought Peter. Then another thought struck him. He remembered that Jerry Muskrat makes his entrance to his home in the bank under water, where it cannot be seen from the bank. If Little Joe was to do the same thing, he, Peter, might just as well look for a needle in a haystack. However, Peter is not easily discouraged. He hopped along, up one bank of the Laughing Brook looking and looking for holes. Every hole he came to he examined with the greatest care. He sniffed and sniffed at each one, hoping to get a whiff of Little Joe Otter. When he had gone a long way up the Laughing Brook he crossed it on an old log and went back down the other side looking and looking just the same.

But not all Peter's looking he didn't find a thing. More than this, he saw no signs that Little Joe Otter had been up the Laughing Brook for a long time. He was just about to give up discouraged, when in a deep little pool he heard a splash. He turned quickly. He was just in time to see Little Joe Otter swimming away with a fish in his mouth.

"Hi, Little Joe!" he cried. "Are you living up this way?"

Little Joe grinned in spite of the fish in his mouth. "Certainly I am," said he. "Come up and see me and meet Mrs. Joe."

With that Little Joe suddenly disappeared under water and though Peter sat for a long, long time watching, he saw nothing more of Little Joe.

"Now how am I ever going to make a call when I don't know where to call?" muttered Peter, as he started for the dear Old Crier Patch.

Fashion's New Protege

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

NEW YORK, May 16.—"What will be next?" the designers and buyers asked themselves when they saw the amazing effects shown in footwear in the past year.

"What will be the next article of dress to receive the attention of that capricious lady, Dame Fashion, and rise from a position of comparative inconsequence to a place in the sun."

The answer was not long in coming and the spring openings only confirmed the fact. Fashion's new protege is the glove.

With the return to the Victorian influence on clothes—a certain modesty has crept into the styles. Uncovered arms are no more seen. If you wear short sleeves—you must wear long gloves.

Up to the present day gloves have been a mere etcetera of a costume. One glove was really not so different from another glove. The most faultlessly dressed women have been content to wear the same glove with a reception gown that they wore with a dinner gown or a dance frock. There was really nothing else for them to wear. The tailleur was the same in a short length. There may have been some small distinction in the stitching or the pointing, but scarcely worth mentioning—certainly nothing to feature as "style."

Last year My Lady Fashion turned her attention to shoes and introduced one style after another, her ingenuity keeping pace with her imagination. We have had in the past ten months more variety in foot covering than has been known in all the years since Eve fashioned her first sandals.

A Glove for Every Need

There is now no doubt that the next few months will introduce as many novelties and beautiful striking effects in gloves as we now see in footwear. Already the most exclusive New York shops are showing many delightful designs. No longer are gloves merely long or short, white, brown or black. We now have Reception Gloves—Gloves for the Dance—the Tailleur Glove. No costume is harmonious or complete unless the gloves have been carefully considered and chosen as an important factor.

As this is the season when the silk glove very naturally steps into the foreground, it is the silk glove that is the forerunner in the new models and designs. It is also claimed that the silk glove is more in keeping with the quaint Victorian costumes, which are now the accepted models for spring.

In fact there have always been many women of flawless taste who have held that the silk glove should always be worn with afternoon and evening gowns and the kid reserved for the tailleur. However that may be—the silk glove is becoming more and more the spring and summer glove.

Anna Pavlowa's Daily Lesson In Dancing Now Social Steps

Anna Pavlowa and Partner Illustrating side glide.

BY ANNA PAVLOWA.
ARTICLE NO. 2.

The side-glide, which constitutes the second division of my standardized one-step, may be performed after the eighth count while the couple is dancing, with the lady moving straight ahead, or after eight counts, in which four are first in a forward direction ror the lady, and the next four reversed, the cavalier going forward.

It consists of two glide steps to the right. Occupying a "closed" position, the partners are ready to begin the side-glide, the lady on her right foot and her partner on his left.

The side-glide figure should cover eight counts of the music, but there should be only one step taken on the first two counts. The lady moves to her left and the cavalier to his right. Instead of a long first-step the dancers take one less than one-half a customary glide step. This is made necessary because of the direction assumed, something I deem proper in order to give variety and grace to the dance.

When count "three" arrives the lady takes a fairly long step to the left with her left foot and on the ball of the foot; and on the fourth count she brings her right foot close beside the left, as she did in starting the figure on the first count. The next four counts are, for the lady, left foot to the left, on ball of foot, on count "one" (or five, if it is easier to so remember it) right foot brought alongside left on count "two"; left foot to the left on count "three" and the lady's left on counts "three" and "four."

During these last four counts, the lady and her cavalier make a gradual turn to the left so that on the final step they have made between a quarter and a half turn. On the eight (or second count of four) count the dancers find themselves in a perfect position either to resume the first figure in the one-step for eight counts or to progress into the next one.

The cavalier, of course, starts on the foot opposite that of his lady and to his right. On count "one" he brings his left foot, which is only a few inches away from his right, along the floor and closely touching the right. He stands quiet on count "two," glides a fairly long slide (as much as twelve inches) with the right foot on count "three" and carrying the left foot along the floor on the fourth count to the right.

The next four counts are first on the right, then the left brought alongside, the right again and finally the left carried close against it.

SCHOOL CHILDREN WILL SEE CALIFORNIA EXHIBITS

Small Fee Charged for Admission to Cars Boosting Western States' Products

Atlanta school children have been invited to visit the two California exhibit cars now in the city on a tour of the country for the purpose of advertising the state's agricultural, horticultural and commercial industries.

Superintendent W. M. Slaton has addressed a letter to the various schools suggesting a visit to the care as a valuable method of instruction. The teachers have been given tickets and children will be charged a small admission.

The cars which are sent out by the boards of trade of seven counties extending along the Pacific coast northward from San Francisco, are located in the yards at the foot of Bartow street back of the Orpheum theater. They are in charge of V. H. Barber and will be here until May 20.

Among the interesting exhibits which the cars contain are collections of fruits, grains and vegetables; some Luther Burbank's specimens; an octopus weighing forty-five pounds and measuring 11 feet from tip to tip of its tentacle; a California ostrich and its eggs; sea shells; a monster shark; whales' ribs; a live alligator; Peruvian cavies; two Philippine monkies and a Japanese lantern fish.

ATLANTA HUMANE SOCIETY EMPLOYES SPECIAL AGENT

H. D. Freeman, Former Policeman, Made Special Officer for Society

R. C. Congdon, president of the Atlanta Humane society, has notified Chief Beavers that the society has employed H. D. Freeman as a special officer to enforce the laws against cruelty to animals and to prosecute violators of these laws.

Mr. Freeman is a former member of the Atlanta police force and is considered a high-class officer. He is an expert clay pigeon shot and for some years has been employed by one of the manufacturers of shotgun shells. Recently he returned to his old home in Atlanta, and the humane society has now secured his services.

The employment of Mr. Freeman is the outcome of the society's complaint that Policeman Camp, detailed by the police department to enforce the humane laws, was doing nothing but investigate specific complaints and was taking no action on his own initiative. The society declared its intention of employing its own officer, and this intention has now been carried out.

Jackets Enter A. A. U. Contests

Tech Boys to Compete at Birmingham Saturday--May Run in Colors of Atlanta Athletic Club

While the fact that the Tech Jackets are not members of the S. I. A. A. will keep them from participating in the annual track and field meet of that organization, which will be held in New Orleans on Friday and Saturday of this week, the local cinder path performers will still get into a meet this week in which the competition promises to be spirited and keen. The Jackets will take part in the Amateur Athletic union meet which will be staged in Birmingham by the Birmingham Athletic club.

An entry list including nine performers has already been sent in to Bill Streit, who has charge of affairs. This list was made up by the local authorities, but it is possible that the Jackets may run in the colors of the Atlanta Athletic club.

Al Doonan, chairman of the athletic committee of the Athletic club, is handling the matter of having the collegians run under his colors. The Jackets are not registered under the A. A. U., and running for the college will have to compete unattached, since the college does not hold membership in the A. A. U. However, in former months, Tech athletes have competed for both the local club and the Birmingham club, and if the matter of registering the boys can be handled in time for the meet, they will compete for the local club in this meet.

Nine men have been entered for this meet. They are Mauck and Preas in the weights, Nigels in the sprints, Sparks in the distance runs, Jordan and Smith in the pole vault and high jump, Robinson in the high jump, Glover in the broad jump and hurdles, and Street in the broad jump.

Reports from Birmingham state that several athletes are promising entries in this meet. Among others are scott, the sensational distance man from Mississippi A. and M. This boy is credited with doing a quarter in 48 seconds, and the half in 1:53. His time for the quarter, provided either time is able to take both games, will have a clear claim to the prep title, and great excitement prevails over the coming battles. Gordon, it is understood here, will bring a strong delegation of rooters, and many visitors are expected from nearby towns. Special rates on the railroads have been obtained, and the city is looking for one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a baseball or other athletic game in the city.

The Sportlight

BY GRANTLAND RICE

IN THE ULTIMATE ANALYSIS

They may rant and rave and rumble
In the pugilistic jumble,
On a blend of fancy footwork, or of speed;
On the pug who's quick and shifty
Or insidiously lifty;
With the sidestep at the moment of its need;
They may slip him all that's coming
With the boost-implanted strumming,
But I'd rather dip my Kelly from the roof,
In the hip-hip and the bowing—
In the scraping and kow-towing—
To the bloke who packs a kick in either hoof.

They may boom the ringing praises
Of the bear cats and the daises
Who are artists of the shift and counter punch;
They may play up the statics
And the subtle-toed fantastic
From the brawlers who are cornered for a hunch;
He may be there with the parry—
With the counter light and airy,
But I'd rather, howsoever they may spoof,
Shoot my bank roll on his journey
Out the trail of any tourney
With the bloke who packs a kick in either hoof.

"My dear sir," writes a mild and courteous bystander, "are you crazy? Jess Willard would kill this Coffey guy in about five rounds. Coffey would never hit Willard a solid wop, and if he did it wouldn't hurt him. Whereas, on the other paw, or on both paws, Willard would tear Coffey's head off in less than eight rounds. You can put that in your pipe and smoke it."

Thanks, but we've quit smoking hop. And you may be right, at that.

PUT US DOWN FOR 55 CENTS.

Dear Sir: Boost the Yanks and criticise the Giants now all you want to—you and the rest of bunch. But I'd like to have about two thousand bet that by October the Giants will be higher in the National league than the Yanks will be in the American league. And higher by more than one position in the standing of the clubs. FAIR PLAY.

THAT'S THE HURRY?

Dear Sir—How about the Boston Braves being such big favorites in the National league race? They were going to start right in and break up the league, but the start is still going on, and the Braves are not even near the top. S. J. T.

The Yanks with Evers back at second, and James, Tyler and Rudolph all ready to move at old-fashioned speed, will be something to behold. They will be there, or thereabouts, for an accounting at the proper moment.

A number of folks make the mistake of rating Johnny Evers' worth according to his batting and fielding average. The Crab yields his share of base hits and fancy stops. But the inspiration and the pur he imparts to his mates are well above any uplift he can bring in a physical capacity. He is the greatest dispenser of the Old Pep the game has ever known.

THE TEST TRIP.

The highly revolutionized Yanks are now heading for the habitat of Mr. Cobb, Mr. Crawford, Mr. Collins and others engaged in maintaining western supremacy.

Their standing at the completion of this tour will offer the best line upon the true value, and if they can secure a shade better than a 50-50 affair on the jaunt their place in the first division might be considered as established for the year. In any case, those in the west who have been gazing upon Yank performances these last ten years will be a bit astounded at the remarkable change Bill Donovan has wrought. Many of them may demand that Donovan go before a notary public and take oath to the fact that the Yanks are the Yanks—and not a set of ringers lugged in for hire.

SHORT PUTS.

By observing closely you may notice that bad luck rarely ever attends with a well played shot.

Which recalls the fact that to entirely too many golfers terrible luck is only getting 50 per cent of the breaks.

Just why the best golfer should generally have the best of the luck is another piercing mystery that is still unsolved.

R. F. L.—Vardon isn't more capable than Braid, Taylor or Duncan of making brilliant shots. But he excels all in machine steadiness, where he has been the most remarkable of them all.

Those who follow Vardon at Baltusrol will obtain an outline on his consistency—at least until he reaches the putting green. There he proves that he is human and not merely a collection of machine joints.

College Tennis Tourney Starts

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—The defeat of Morris and Arthur Watters of Tulane university by Broad and Stacy, of the University of Texas, featured the opening here today of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association championship tournament. Representatives of the University of Texas, Vanderbilt, Louisiana State and Tulane universities were on the courts.

Morris and Waters won the first set from Broad and Stacy 7-5 and were leading in the second by a good margin when fate work by the Texans tied the score and the set 7-7. The latter won the sets went to Texas 6-3, 6-2. Brunz and Douglas Watters, Tulane, defeated Fellows and Tabor, Louisiana State, in three straight sets, 6-0, 6-0, 6-2.

In the singles, Douglas Watters, Tulane, defeated Broad, Texas, 6-0, 6-2. Stacy, Texas, won from McGill, Vanderbilt, 6-2, 6-3, while Young, Vanderbilt, defeated Tabor, Louisiana State, 6-5, 6-4. Fellows, Louisiana State, lost to Bruns, Tulane, 6-1, 6-1.

Consolation singles for those who lost their matches Monday are to be played today while Texas is expected to beat Vanderbilt in the doubles.

Tech Not Keen To Enter Meet

The fact that the Tech track team was not allowed to enter the S. I. A. A. A. track meet in New Orleans this week is not exciting the Jackets any. In fact the following letter from Prof. W. N. Randle, graduate manager of athletics as the institution would indicate that the Jackets are in nowise chagrined over the fact that their withdrawal from the association keeps them out of the meet.

Atlanta, May 10,1915.

Sport Editor Journal.

Dear Sir: I have noticed some comment with reference to the fact that Tech will not be permitted to enter the S. I. A. A. track meet at New Orleans, not being a member of that body, and have also heard considerable talk on the streets over the matter. In this connection I wish to announce that we have been urged by more than one member of the association to send a team, but since the rules of the association expressly prohibit the entry of non-members in this meet, we of course did not expect to offer an entry, nor were we interested in any move to have an exception made of our case. We appreciate any kindly efforts that may have been made, but under the circumstances prefer that any agitation of the matter be dropped.

Thanking you for interest manifested in our behalf, I am,

Respectfully yours,

W. N. RANDLE.

G. M. C. Ready For Big Games

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., May 11.—All Milledgeville is busy getting ready for the premier sport event of the season, which will take place here Thursday and Friday of this week. This is the series of games between the two rivals, Gordon institute and Georgia Military college for the state prep baseball championship.

The local college has a great team this season, and reports from Barnesville indicate that Gordon likewise will bring along a strong outfit. The winner of the series, provided either team is able to take both games, will have a clear claim to the prep title, and great excitement prevails over the coming battles. Gordon, it is understood here, will bring a strong delegation of rooters, and many visitors are expected from nearby towns. Special rates on the railroads have been obtained, and the city is looking for one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a baseball or other athletic game in the city.

No Chance for Extra Fray Here

Georgia Wires Tech That the Team Can Not Return Here to Play Off Postponed Game Thursday

Agitation of a move to bring Tech and Georgia together on the diamond in Atlanta again this spring was ended late Monday afternoon, when Prof. Randle, graduate manager of athletics at Tech, received a wire from Prof. Sanford, at Georgia, stating that the Athenians could not return here for a game Thursday. After the strenuous thirteen-inning fray Saturday, local fans had hôped that the two teams might get together to play off the game which was postponed Friday. However, this wire from Georgia is taken as final on the matter.

The Jackets go to Athens this week to tackle Georgia in two games on Sanford field on Friday and Saturday. These games will wind up the regular season of both teams. To judge from the game here Saturday of last week, these two contests are going to prove bitterly-fought affairs. Apparently the teams are about as evenly matched as two baseball teams can be, and an even break for them on the two games appears to be in line. In all probability Jim Senter and Ed Hitchcock will resume the hurling duel which was interrupted by darkness here last week in the first game of the series in Athens, with Bryant and Corley doing the flinging for the opposing forces in the last fray of the series.

Barons Release Roth To Memphis Chicks

BIRMINGHAM, May 11.—Manager Molesworth announced today the release of Pitcher Dave Roth of the local team. Roth was obtained from the Chicago White Sox last season. His work during the last month or six weeks of last season was very good, but this year he has not shown very favorably. He was claimed by the Memphis club under the waiver rule, and will join Lord's team at once. Roth is a slow starter, and may later prove a valuable hurler for Memphis.

Nineteen hits out of thirty-one times at bat is the record that Tommy McMillan hung up for the Indianapolis Hoosiers in six games a short time since. Indianapolis fans are beginning to ask where this Bush that Hughey Jennings has played before he went to the big leagues.

Merritt Wins Own Game in Thirteenth--Travelers Downed by Pels--Gulls-Vos Rained Out

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 11.—Howard Merritt won his own game in the thirteenth inning of a gruelling pitching duel with Arthur Johnson, of Birmingham, when his single scored Cruthers and Dunckel. Not one of the locals reached third base and Merritt was master at all times. Carroll, at first base for Birmingham, had twenty-seven putouts during the game. Ellam's fielding and hitting featured.

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—Excellent pitching by Bagby, coupled with the wildness of Kaat and the inability of Lively to prevent the locals hitting, enabled New Orleans to defeat Little Rock yesterday, 7 to 3. Bagby's playing featured the game, the local pitcher getting three hits, one a triple, in four times at bat, and handling nine chances in the field without an error. About 3,000 school children were guests of the management at Heinemann park.

Boxer Dies From Injuries in Ring

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—Natallie Lafauci, a local bantamweight boxer, collapsed in his corner between the third and fourth rounds of a bout here last night with Edward Kern and died in a hospital a half hour afterward. Concussion of the brain caused his death according to physicians. Spectators said that Kern twice knocked down Lafauci and that the boxer fell twice to the floor during the bout. The authorities ordered the arrest of Kern. Action in the case of Tommy Burns, former heavyweight champion of the world, the promoter of the fight, and Walter Griffin, the referee, was deferred until tomorrow when an investigation will be held.

Crackers and Lookouts Divide Exciting Card

By Innis Brown

To revamp ... famous observation of the celebrated Mr. C. Dickens, "It was the best of days, it was the worst of days," at Ponce de Leon Monday afternoon. The best refers to the heavy fusillading of Cracker bludgeons against Lookout hurlers, and the worst refers to the loss of a game that to all purposes and intents should have been landed on the other side of the ledger. As an aftermath to the fine rubbing of the locals for the afternoon a victory in an abbreviated encounter, the second section of a double header, should be mentioned as coming under the head of things praiseworthy. The Crackers dropped the first engagement by a count of 8 to 6 in eleven innings of hair-raising pastiming. They grabbed the second by a count of 5 to 2.

There were enough features in that first battle to last for a whole series, had they been strung along over three separate games. And just by way of keeping up the fun, some extraordinary stuff was pulled in the second as well. In the first place, two home runs were hit in the opening fray, and they were kicked in at times when the poling was opportune in the extreme. Furthermore, the game was one of those seesaw affairs that kept the fans alternately yelping and gulping, cutting loose the loud stuff when the home team was showing the stuff over, and settling back to disappointment when the opposition was pulling the old get up stuff.

It might almost be set down that Jim Allen should have won the game in the regulation route. But on second thought Jim got himself into about as much trouble as the miscues of his mates chucked him. As it was he was withdrawn from the box in the ninth with two tied up, and Carl Thompon hoved in and allowed to stay there long enough to have the onus of bearing the defeat shifted on to his shoulders, by virtue of the fact that the runs which ultimately won the game were scored off his arm. The Lookouts while he was tenant of the pitching mound.

It would require enough space to require a formal declaration of independence to tell all the details of the scoring by the two teams. Suffice to say that the Lookouts gathered one run in the opener on a double by Elberfeld and a single by Harris.

The Crackers went this one better in the second. Jenkins walked and some sequential hitting by Manning, Williams, Leo and Bisland counted a pair. Starting the fifth, Allen lost aim temporarily, and walked the first two men up. However, Jenkins picked Jud Daley, the first man up, off first. Then Johnston reached first when Sid Smith dropped a throw by Manning. Up came Harris again. He aimed to fight one through, and putting the Moosemen one to the good again.

Then this home run stuff began to break loose at intervals. In the eighth, Jenkins poled one against the left field fence. The drive was so long over that it took Jack Johnston three minutes to walk back to his place after fielding the ball. Jenkins could have crawled in from second. This tied the score.

Then the pesky Lookouts came back and shoved two more over in the tenth. A home run wallop by young Lusk, counting McCormick, who had gotten on when Williams fumbled his grounder—Otto's first error, by the way, in more than a hundred chances—put the Lookouts two to the good. The Crackers came back again with two more in their half. Moran walked and Rumler's single sent him to third. Daley scored on Smith's sacrifice fly. Jenkins drew a pass, and he and Bisland moved up on a passed ball. Manning's rap scored Bisland.

Here Manager Smith pulled what looked like a neat stroke by sending Elbel in to hit for Allen, hoping to end the fray then and there. Elbel made that third the thirty-first. Thompson took up the burden beginning the first half of the eleventh, and opened by walking Clark, who had replaced Cunningham in the box for the Lookouts. Jenkins hesitated on handling Daly's grounder in front of the plate, and then threw low to third, permitting Clark to score, after he had moved up to second on the play.

This run proved enough to win, though Daly scored a bit later when Jenkins dropped a pitch which Johnston missed on an intended squeeze. Clark was going good up to this time, and the locals were unequal to the task of picking up the two-run lead.

The big blowoff in the second game came in the third frame. Williams opened with a triple, but Hiett grounded out, and Lee fanned. It looked like the hit was going to seed. But Bisland camé through with a pinch single to right, counting Williams. Moran singled, but Bisland was held at second. Then Bill Rumler cut loose a third homer of the afternoon. The ball rolled to deep center, and three runs came over. Smith doubled and Jenkins walked, but Jud Daly saved Clark further hurling by a great running catch of what looked like a sure triple by Manning toward the scoreboard. Singles by Hiett and Lee and a forceout on Bisland, who drew a pass, netted another in the fourth.

The Lookouts picked up a harmless pair in the fifth. Betts singled and Daly drew a pass. Elberfeld was hit by a pitched ball, and Johnston drove two over with a single. Harris made an easy out, and Hiett held the situation in hand for the next two runs.

WILLARD A BETTER CARD IN RING THAN ON STAGE

NEW YORK, May 10.—Since Jess Willard left New York little has been heard of the new heavyweight champion. Although it is but less than a month since the giant Kansas humbled Jack Johnson, much of the furore created by that epoch marking event has died away. From present indications it would appear that, despite the predictions that the conqueror would be rewarded with immense fortune, it is going to take considerable time before said fortune reaches huge proportions.

There is no reason to doubt that in the long run Willard will be a great success financially, although it will not be some time before he comes into his own. Just at present it must be admitted that he has been rated a trifle too enthusiastically, considering the feat he accomplished.

The only test of Willard's popularity will come when he enters the ring again. There is really no demand for him as a stage star, and he is not the type to be that sort of work, unlike Jim Corbett, Jimmy Britt and others. Those who go to see the big fellow do so merely to gratify curiosity. As an object of hero worship, Willard will be a much greater success after joke fighter, having failed to accomplish the real worth while in his first trip to New York.

But after Jeffries won the championship he lost little before defending it. It was this willingness to fight that made Jeffries so wonderfully popular. He never was a very polished boxer, but the fact that he was always ready for action, and always won, compelled admiration, and finally became a veritable idol. But it was only after he had twice defeated all the contenders that he reached the height of his fame.

If Willard cares to follow Jeff's example he should have a comparatively easy time demonstrating his superiority, for there are few men in sight just now who appear to have much of a chance with him. There is also another reason why Willard should lose no time getting back into harness. Although he has had comparatively little experience, Willard is not a young man, athletically speaking, and he cannot hope to be at his best much longer. He will make a big mistake if he neglects the opportunity to make a general cleanup while conditions is so weak. After that he could devote his time to stage work with better success.

There is no doubt that Willard still is suffering from all the abuse that was heaped upon all white heavyweights ever since Jeffries was dethroned. For the long years the public has been led to believe that it was being swindled by the somewhat crude performances of the big fellow, and that feeling of suspicion has not been entirely removed as yet.

This should, if no other, Willard would do well to keep on fighting until he has satisfied the doubting ones that he has the real goods, for there are many who discount his victory over the black on the ground that Johnson was in no shape to offer much resistance.

If Willard shapes his course along the lines followed by Jeffries it will not be long before he becomes as great an idol as the latter was when at the height of his career.

Leslie Tullos Draws Notice

Following Monday's Game Manager Smith Decided to Release Texan--Manning to Play Third

Manager Smith pulled something rather unexpected in the game with the Lookouts Monday afternoon in the way of a shift on his forces. He replaced Elbel at first with Sid Smith, who has klinks in back of the platter and stationed Manning on second in place of Tullos.

Following the game he announced that he would continue this cast for the time being, and also announced that he was giving Leslie Tullos five days' notice. This means, of course that Ed Manning will hold down the job at third. Manning strike into the game as a third baseman in the Sally league, and was anxious for a tryout in the infield. He was opposed to the idea to shove him into the shifting ranks, and if he can hit he will doubtless swing on to the third basing job.

The combination which was tried out Monday showed a lack of polish in its fielding work, but its infield showed some good sound walloping into the line-up than has been seen in any game to date before. And hitting has been a feature sadly lacking in most of the games. soon as the bunch has time to settle down and get to working together with the hitting power in the lineup now, it should win a lot of ball games.

Herb Kelly was shoved into the first game Monday in the eleventh inning, but had not time to show much of what he has. He will doubtless be rallied on to go the route within the next few days or as soon as the team can afford to go long enough for the crew to get a few games going wiout interruption.

Jud Daley apeared in centerfield for the Lookouts and he is the same old Jud. Always kidding with the bleachers, hits the ball hard, gets on bases often and then gets trapped in time to kill all of good chances to count runs for his club.

The gang in the bleachers was after Kid Elberfeld throughout the double bill. The Kid had some kind of a ructin with Billy Lee early in the first game of it, and the bleacherites figured that he was trying to put something over on Billy. They rode him for the rest of the afternoon.

Joe Jenkins is the first of the Crackers to nick Dick Jemison for a five spot promised for hitting his sign in right field. Jemison made the high mark on the boards in the first game, and he clubbed him a triple.

Incidentally Joseph was in a poling habit all the afternoon. He hit a single and a triple and got on the first game, and drew two passes in his five trips to the plate. A double and a base on balls was his line-up in three chances in the second game.

That homer by the way, was some rap. It cleared Jack Johnston's dome by about a foot, and he never stirred a step. It hit the fence in deep left center, and bounded back. The ball went almost to the exact spot Jim Allen drove one in an exhibition game with the Havana Reds.

WAYCROSS IN GAY ATTIRE FOR GEORGIA ELKS' VISIT

Busy Program Ahead for Convention Which Opens Wednesday Morning

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

WAYCROSS, Ga., May 11.—Waycross today is a mass of purple and white, with many American flags, in honor of the Elks of Georgia. The first convention held in several years will open here tomorrow, with Walter F. Andrews, of Atlanta, president of the Georgia association of Elks, presiding. Local Elks, accompanied by a brass band, will meet the incoming delegations and from the moment the Atlanta special arrives over the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Waycross will literally be in the hands of the Elks.

Mayor Beaton today denied that he proposed to turn over the keys of Waycross to the Elks. "Waycross has no keys to give the Elks," said the mayor, "because we have already opened up things for the Elks. We are going to give them the best time they have ever seen, and make them want to designate Waycross as the official headquarters of the state association."

Atlanta Party Leaves at 10:30 Tuesday Night

Over 400 Atlanta Elks leave the Terminal station at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday evening over the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic road for the state convention at Waycross.

"Atlanta in 1916!" will be their slogan and Colonel Walter P. Andrews, head of the party, told The Atlanta Journal today that he was confident the state convention will give the unanimous indorsement of all Elks in Georgia for next year's convention in Atlanta.

Colonel Andrews received a letter Tuesday from Colonel Robert W. Brown, past grand exalted ruler of the order and editor of the Louisville Times, declaring that he will strive to get all the Elks in Kentucky to pull for Atlanta, other communications from all over the country have been received by Colonel Andrews boosting Atlanta's bid.

In the party which leaves here Tuesday night are Albert L. Dunn, treasurer of the state association; Colonel W. Andrews, the president; Robert A. Gordon, member of the credentials committee of the grand lodge; J. F. Billups, general passenger agent of the Atlanta and West Point railroad; John D. Simmons, district deputy grand exalted ruler of the north Georgia; Charles H. Mayson, W. P. Pain, Walter L. Dunn, Captain T. A. Perry, Leslie Moore, Judge W. A. Roan, George Silber, V. O. Nash, George H. James, Lee McHan, W. H. Smaw, W. J. Stoddard, R. C. Bosche, John Y. Smith and others.

A party of ten from Athens, including Bernie Dabbs and Joseph Deadwyler, will join the Atlanta Elks at the Terminal.

FIRST SELECTION FOR OGLETHORPE FACULTY

Dr. G. F. Nicolassen to Head the Chair of Ancient Languages at University

Announcement is made of the election of Dr. G. F. Nicolassen to the professorship of ancient languages in Oglethorpe university.

Dr. Nicolassen is the first selection made by the faculty committee to constitute the teaching force of Oglethorpe. It was felt by all the members of the board of directors that the selection of a faculty was vital to the success of the institution. Believing that no single element of the university is more important as its teaching force they have been and are now canvassing the entire educational world in search for the men they want.

Dr. Nicolassen, their first selection, was born in Baltimore and educated in the public schools of that city, being one of the Peabody prize winners upon graduation from the Baltimore City college. After spending an additional year in the same institution he became a student of the university of Virginia, where he received the degree of A. B. and a year later that of A. M. In the fall of 1875 he received a fellowship in Greek at the Johns Hopkins university and held it for two years. The third year he was made assistant instructor in Latin and Greek, and at the close of the season received the degree of doctor of philosophy.

He then became professor of ancient languages in the Southwestern Presbyterian college at Clarksville, Tenn., and has been connected with that institution ever since. After nine years of service he exchanged Latin for German, but has kept the Greek all the time. He has published two books for the use of his own students, "Notes on Latin and Greek," and "Greek Notes Revised," but most of his time and thought has been given to the work of the class room. For over ten years he held the office of vice chancellor and for nearly three years was practically in charge of the institution with the interior when there was no chancellor. He is an elder in the First Presbyterian church of Clarksville and is at present the moderator of the synod of Tennessee; as such it was made his duty to express to the First church in Nashville the congratulations of the synod upon the occasion of its centennial last November. Dr. Nicolassen has tendered his resignation to the board of directors of S. P. U. to take effect at the close of the present session. He proposes to spend a year at Harvard university in order to fit himself more fully for his work in connection with Oglethorpe university.

The executive committee of Oglethorpe university feel that in securing the acceptance of Dr. Nicolassen of this position they have struck the keynote in faculty selection. There is probably no one man in the southern educational work known more widely than he for all the qualities that make a great instructor and character-builder.

FOOD IS FOUND FOR GRANT PARK BEAVERS

Joe Cochran, manager of parks, is happy now that he has found that two beavers recently imported from Canada for the Grant park lake will not have to starve to death.

Mr. Cochran was told that the beavers thrive only on birch bark. He didn't think a birch tree could be found within hundreds of miles, but he went out looking for one. Near the Hemphill pumping station he found quite a cluster of the trees.

And then along came Councilman Claude Ashley, muchly experienced in the raising of beavers, and Mr. Ashley informed him that plenty of celery ery the beavers will survive.

PETITIONS FOR CLEMENCY FOR FRANK STILL PILE UP

Fifteen Thousand Brought to Atlanta by Woman Writer on Cincinnati Post

Fifteen thousand petitions for clemency for Leo M. Frank were brought to Governor Slaton Monday afternoon by Miss Eleanor Black, a writer on the staff of the Cincinnati Post.

These petitions were circulated by the Post and upon their receipt were bundled up in a package reaching about seventy-five pounds. Then they were turned over to Miss Black to bring them to Governor Slaton in person.

The young woman came to the executive offices Monday afternoon accompanied by a newspaper man with the bundle. She expressed disappointment that Governor Slaton was in New York and she was personally place them in the governor's hands.

The bale of letters was placed in an enormous goose box in the governor's reception room in which were already about twenty-five thousand letters asking clemency for Frank. These letters came from all sections of the United States. Governor Slaton has never read any of the letters and doubtless will not do so, the task of reading them all would be impossible during his few remaining weeks in office.

SMOKE CASE MARKED BY LONG LEGAL FIGHT

State Wins Over Ducktown Copper Company After 11 Years of Litigation

With the decision of the United States supreme court Monday to enjoin the Ducktown Sulphur, Copper and Iron company in Tennessee from discharging more than a certain percentage of sulphur fumes into the air from its smelters, the state of Georgia wins a big victory and attorneys acting for the state in the matter achieve success after eleven years of complicated litigation.

The Ducktown case is one of the most famous in Georgia legal annals. It was organized in 1904 by Judge John C. Hart, at that time attorney general under Hoke Smith, and Tennell Citizens of Gilmer, Fannin and Murray counties in the northern part of the state, made complaint that fumes from the copper company's plant crossed the state line and destroyed their crops. In the suit, in association with Lignon Johnson, former Atlanta attorney, appealed for an injunction, backed by the federal proviso which permits one state to bring suit against another in the United States supreme court.

After lengthy controversy, the Tennessee Copper company, one of two defendants, arranged a compromise and after the agreed upon period, had apparently taken no steps to comply with the order of the court. Thomas S. Felder as attorney general, instituted suit against the company in the United States supreme court.

His successor, Warren Grice, on coming into office, had J. A. Drake appointed counsel for the state, with Lamar Hill as his associate. Since June of last year these two attorneys have been engaged in taking evidence to present to the high court. It being allowed that the state should have the right to bring witnesses in an effort to prove that the copper company had not complied with the court order. This is one of the few cases on record in which there was involved the taking of direct testimony before the supreme court.

Working in conjunction, Attorneys Drake and Hill examined over 150 witnesses and gathered a mass of testimony covering nearly 1,800 pages. This they presented to the supreme court in October.

The decision in their favor, handed down Monday, gives ten days to the parties of the suit to draw a form of decree, and besides enjoining the Ducktown company, would appoint an inspector to report on the operation of the plant at the next term of court.

CLUB MANAGERS INDICTED FOR SALE OF LIQUOR

Grand Jury Acts in Case of Tabarinis and J. M. McMillan

After examining several witnesses, of which Chief of Police J. L. Beavers was the principal one, the grand jury Tuesday indicted Mrs. Minnie Tabarini, Anthony Tabarini and J. M. McMillan for committing a misdemeanor in selling spirituous liquors on April 20.

Mrs. Tabarini some time ago sued McMillan, at that time manager of the Theatrical and Mechanical association, alleging that this locker club was run for profit, that she and her husband and McMillan ran the club and had a contract with the club to get half these profits and that she had not received her share. Later she filed a retraction of her allegations.

SURGICAL MAGNETS.

Paris, Feb. 20.—In the hospitals of France magnets have been developed that will draw fragments of shrapnel to the surface from a depth in the flesh of even six inches, and steel-jacketed bullets have been drawn out from a depth of more than two inches.

At the Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., are many as wonderful electric machines, high frequency currents, X-ray, violet rays. Then Dr. Pierce has equipped the Sanitarium with every known device to aid the sick and in the Surgical Department every instrument and appliance approved by the modern operator. The permanent cure of rupture is accomplished here without pain with local anaesthesia. Stone in the Bladder and Gravel are removed in many cases without pain and the patient can return home cured in a few days.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, nearly half a century ago, devised and used two prescriptions which were almost unfailing. They are made without alcohol or narcotics, extracted from roots and herbs by using pure glycerine and the ingredients are made public.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a tonic and blood purifier that corrects impaired digestion, humors, eruptions and diseases of the skin.

Nothing stands as high today in the estimation of thousands of women as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—this is a soothing nervine which cures the functional derangements and painful disorders of women. For girls about to enter womanhood, women about to become mothers and for the changing days of middle age Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription should always be on hand. In liquid or tablets. Write Dr. Pierce, invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. for free 136-page book on woman's diseases. Every woman should have one.

CALOMEL DYNAMITES A SLUGGISH LIVER

Crashes into sour bile, making you sick and you lose a day's work.

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.—(Advt.)

What Causes Sore Feet?

Aching, burning, and sweaty feet; corns, callouses, and sore bunions all originate from injured tissues. But there is no necessity to endure foot torture a single moment. Any of these troubles can be instantly relieved and permanently cured by using the following scientific treatment that acts through the pores and removes the cause. "Two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in warm foot bath; soak the feet fifteen minutes, gently rubbing sore parts." You can get Calocide from any druggist or department store. ATHENS SAYS TURKS HAVE LOST 45,000 MEN AT GALLIPOLI taken by us up to yesterday evening is more than fifty.

"Monday night the enemy suffered a further check. The counter attacks to the north of Nuville Saint Vaast, preceded by a violent bombardment, were completely repulsed and we retained all the ground gained by us, at the same time inflicting very heavy losses on our assailants. On the remainder of the front from Loos to Arras there was no counter attacks yesterday.

"Following the bombardment of Dunkirk, reported yesterday morning, during which three shells fell but without hurting anybody or inflicting any damage, the Germans threw 11 shells on the town of Bergues, five miles south southeast of Dunkirk. Twelve persons were killed and eleven were wounded.

"Our batteries at once opened fire and they put a stop to the shelling of the enemy, which was not resumed during the day.

"On the rest of the front there has been nothing to report.

"One of our aviators yesterday bombarded a hangar for dirigible balloons at Maubege and started a fire. An aviator of the enemy threw bombs on the railroad station at Doullens, twenty miles north of Amiens, but without doing any damage.

"Another aviator of the enemy pursued between the Argonne and the Meuse by a French airman was compelled to come down within the German lines, where his machine took fire.

"On the other hand, the Germans brought down yesterday a British aviator, and British soldiers were successful in bringing down two German airmen."

Russians Come Back and Strike Enemy Hard, Claim

(By Associated Press.)

PETROGRAD, via London, May 11.—An official statement issued last night by general headquarters said:

"In the region of Uzsok pass the enemy made a fruitless attack on Saturday. Serried enemy columns attacked impetuously a position held by two of our companies in a sector of the Javorina mountain chain on the slopes above Lomitten. The enemy's losses were so heavy heaps of bodies interfered with the fire from our trenches. Our troops, in spite of the enemy's machine gun fire, left their trenches and swept the enemy from the whole region.

"The same day, after a desperate fight, the enemy forced a Russian detachment near the village of Zaleveki to retire to the left bank of the Dniester.

"Sunday night, our vanguards having crossed the Dniester, attacked the enemy on the Chaboruki front to the mouth of the Stry. We took 1,500 prisoners, one gun and many machine guns."

Russians Driving Back Germans and Austrians

(By Associated Press.)

GENEVA, via Paris, May 11.—A dispatch to the Tribune says the Russians have begun a strong offensive movement at Tarnow as well as in Courland and on the Stry, driving back Austrian and German forces with heavy losses.

Russian Baltic Squadron Chases German Cruiser

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 11.—A Reuter's Petrograd dispatch says a squadron of cruisers of the Russian Baltic fleet, while cruising in the southern Baltic in the region of Windau (a seaport in Courland), exchanged long distance fire with a hostile cruiser and torpedo boats which took advantage of their superior speed to escape southward and avoid an engagement.

Turks Move in Anticipation of New Landing by Allies

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 11.—Turkish troops are being transported from Symrna to the Turkish seaports of Alexandretta and Adalia, says an Athens dispatch to the Star. A landing at those places by the allies is said to be expected.

Turks Massacre Company of Australian Troops

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 11.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Athens says:

"The Turks are making desperate attempts every night on the allies' positions in the Dardanelles, but without result thus far. They surrounded a half company of Australian troops, whom they massacred, although the Australians fought determinedly.

"A thousand notables have been arrested in Smyrna on orders from Constantinople."

Pont-a-Mousson Again Subjected to Bombardment

(By Associated Press.)

PONT-A-MOUSSON, France, May 11. This town, which probably holds the record for bombardments by the Germans again is being subjected to an intense fire. A shell recently fell in the kitchen of a house occupied y a family named Le Jaille, without injuring any one, but a few days later another shell landed in a bed room, killing one person and injuring three.

Germans Claim Capture of Two Lines of Trenches

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, May 11.—(Via London.)—The general headquarters staff today gave out the following statement:

"Yesterday morning an English ship was driven away from Westende by our fire.

"We made further progress east of Ypres and captured five machine guns. The French continued their attacks southwest of the Lorette hills, and at the villages of Ablayn and Carency. All their attacks were repulsed. The number of prisoners made by us here was increased to 800.

"Between Carency and Neuville, the French still remain in possession of the trenches taken by them. The battle continues.

"An English flying machine was shot down at a point southwest of Lille.

"Southwest of Berry-au-Bac and in the wood south of Longville-Au-Bois, our troops yesterday took by storm a position of two lines of trenches situated behind each other and stretching over a width of 400 meters. We also took a number of unwounded prisoners and captured mine throwers with much ammunition.

"Enemy infantry attacks north of Flirey and in the forest of La Pretre failed with considerable losses to our opponents.

"In the eastern theater yesterday the situation was unchanged. The Russians attempted to arrest the pursuit of our army under General von Mackenzen on the Dniester. Attacks of the branch of the Strodnika-Brzeznaka and at Repozya northeast of Ekeca and Seemayn on the Vistula. Their object failed completely. By night the Russian lines were pierced in many places, especially at Brzosko and between Brzosko and Lutoza, after a desperate attack by several Russian divisions from Sanok in the direction of Besko had failed in the morning with very heavy losses for the enemy. The pursuit continues."

Italy Must Decide About War by Last of May

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, May 11.—The opinion is general in Italian parliamentary circles, says a Milan dispatch to the Petit Journal, that the government must make known its decision in regard to entering the war not later than the last week in May but could easily assume a decisive attitude before this extreme date.

CABINET HOLDS LONG SESSION BUT NONE WLL BREAK SILENCE

taking up subsequently the question of reparation for the loss of American lives.

Germany's disavowal of any intention to destroy American lives was looked on by many officials as significant of Germany's desire to maintain friendly relations with the United States.

Chairman Stone, of the senate foreign relations committee, discussed the Lusitania disaster with the president before the cabinet meeting began and later said he had no expectation that an extra session of congress would be called.

"I am for peace with honor," said Senator Stone. "I do not know what the president plans to do about the Lusitania. It is his problem, and it is useless for others to attempt to advise him."

Senator Stone declared he favored passage of the government ship purchase bill which failed in the last congress. Such a step, he said, would provide American ships to carry American passengers and goods. He added that he took it for granted the United States would find means to protect its own ships.

Senator LaFollette, another White House caller today, opposed the suggestion that diplomatic relations with Germany be broken off.

"I am for peace," said Senator LaFollette. "I want the United States to take a firm stand, but I am opposed to war."

A dispatch from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin was received today and sent to the president, but its contents were not revealed.

The evidence given by Captain Turner, of the Lusitania, before the coroner's jury has been reported to the state department and will be used by officials in their study of the case.

German Message to U. S. Puts Blame on England

BERLIN, May 11.—The following dispatch has been sent by the German foreign office to the German embassy at Washington:

"Please communicate the following to the state department: The German government desires to express its deepest sympathy at the loss of lives on board the Lusitania. The responsibility rests, however, with the British government, which, through its plan of starving the civilian population of Germany, has forced Germany to resort to retaliatory measures.

"In spite of the German offer to stop the submarine war in case the starvation plan was given up, British merchant vessels are being generally armed with guns and have repeatedly tried to ram submarines, so that a previous search was impossible.

"They cannot, therefore, be treated as ordinary merchant vessels. A recent declaration made to the British parliament by the parliamentary secretary in answer to a question by Lord Charles Beresford said that at the present practically all British merchant vessels were armed and provided with hand grenades.

"Besides, it has been openly admitted by the English press that the Lusitania, on previous voyages repeatedly carried large quantities of war material. On the present voyage the Lusitania carried 5,400 cases of ammunition, while the rest of the cargo also consisted chiefly of contraband.

"If England after repeated official and unofficial warnings, considered herself able to declare that the boat ran no risk and thus light-heartedly assume responsibility for the human life on board a steamer, which owing to its armament and cargo was liable to destruction, the German government, in spite of its heartfelt sympathy for the loss of American lives cannot but regret that Americans felt more inclined to trust to English promises rather than pay attention to the warnings from the German side.

France Is Wondering What America Will Do

PARIS, May 11.—While the French press continues to display intense interest in the sinking of the Lusitania, editorial discussion now is turning more towards the political side of the tragedy and the probable attitude of President Wilson.

Much curiosity is displayed regarding the decisions of Washington. The Matin believes the least the United States could do would be to expel the German ambassador.

London Doesn't Like Mr. Wilson's Attitude

LONDON, May 11.—The words "too proud to fight" cover in huge letters most of the placards displayed on the streets of London today to advertise the evening papers.

The text of President Wilson's Philadelphia speech reached London too late for general comment as yet. The Evening Standard, however, in an editorial remarks:

"President Wilson is a high-minded man, and we can understand what he meant by this rather unpolitical remark. Unfortunately Germany does not understand this kind of rightsousness.

"If America could only, as the president says, convince Germany of her injustice to mankind, how dignified and useful would be her position as a neutral."

many through Switzerland have virtually ceased. Italian passenger trains service to points on the Swiss frontier is diminishing daily.

Switzerland is concerned over the question of food supplies in case Italy enters the war. No supplies come in through Germany or Austria. Food has increased in price 20 to 25 per cent since the war began.

The Swiss government believes wheat from America will be permitted to come through France freely if assurance is given it will not be re-exported.

SEE this picture—look at it CLOSELY! There's a moral to it—a lesson! After you have examined it, decide which one NEVER HAD A CHANCE—show it to the members of your family—and see if they can tell WHICH of these men in the picture NEVER HAD A CHANCE!

The fact of the matter is that there are NOT two different men pictured here—the artist has drawn only ONE man—but he has portrayed him as he will look in the FUTURE, in accordance with the methods that he adopts at PRESENT. The man will appear as shown, in the left side, if he treads the path that leads to FAILURE. He will appear as shown at the right-hand side, if he follows the path that leads to SUCCESS!

Every man is the architect of his own future. EVERY man HAS a chance! BUT—some men KNOW a chance when they see it—and GRASP opportunities! Other men let opportunities SLIP away!

The man who today pays RENT—lets his money get away from him—he allows opportunities to SLIP away. He is apt to resemble the picture at the LEFT—in the future. The man who AVOIDS paying rent—and USES his money in BUYING a HOME on our DIVIDED PAYMENT Plan—namely $100 down and as little as $27 a month—NO MORTGAGE TO ASSUME—he is a man who GRASPS an opportunity and is on the road to SUCCESS and INDEPENDENCE—he is the man who is likely to resemble the picture at the RIGHT—in the future!

STOP paying RENT! Follow the road to SUCCESS! BUY a home, on our DIVIDED PAYMENT Plan—$100 down and as little as $27 a month. Move into said home at once and occupy it while paying for it! Remember—there is NO MORTGAGE to assume!

See the pretty homes that we are offering at Capitol View—on our DIVIDED PAYMENT Plan! Capitol View has developed into a very desirable residential section—inside of Atlanta's city limits—an 18-minute street car ride from the postoffice—and here property is increasing in value. Handsome new houses, on desirable lots, have such modern conveniences as electric lights and beautifully equipped bath rooms with porcelain-lined fixtures.

Take another look at the picture—and GLANCE INTO THE FUTURE! Then INVESTIGATE our proposition! It surely costs NOTHING to INVESTIGATE our splendid proposition which has started so many people on the road to SUCCESS! Phone us—or call at our office!

Herocles and His Brick
Herocles, the pedant, carried a brick. He carried a brick because he had a house for sale, and as he told of the house he represented he wanted to be able to show a sample.
Wise as was this plan in Herocles' day, if Herocles had lived now, he would use the far simpler and more effective Journal Want Ad way of selling a house, lot, cow, washing machine, etc., etc.
Every day more people read the houses for sale columns of Journal Want Ads than there were bricks and boards in Herocles' house.
The accepted way to sell a house in Atlanta is to place a house for sale ad in The Journal.
